RUSSIA OFFER VIRTUALLY ACCEPTED

Chinese Commies Move West To Hangchow, Decisive Battle

Tension Mounts As U. S., British Warships Leave

SHANGHAI, April 26 (AP)—Chinese communist columns, boasting they had overwhelmed two government armies, wheeled west of Shanghai today toward Hangchow and a possible decisive battle.

Shanghai, which remained calm when the Reds broke the Yangtze River line, began to show signs of panic. Business was almost at a standstill, the money market was chaotic.

Nervousness increased as the United States and Great Britain moved heavier naval units out of the Whangpoo. They were anchored in the Yangtze to the north to avoid possible involvement in any fighting.

250 Americans Leaving

More than 250 Americans and other nationals were getting out. Many more elected to stay. U. S. Economic Administration Association Headquarters packed up to move to Canton, South China city now serving as the nationalist capital.

(The communist radio in Peiping announced that lives and property of foreign nationalists would be protected. The broadcast was heard by the AP in San Francisco.)

The communist radio said Red columns had captured Ihing and Chingtai, about 80 miles west of Shanghai. If true they were halfway from the Yangtze to Hangchow, 85 miles southwest of Shanghai.

Hangchow may be the site of a last-ditch government stand on the opulous eastern seaboard of China.

Many of the government forces which seem to have vanished from Shanghai may be at Hangchow now.

While one Red column curled around the western side of Giant Tai Lake in the Ihing sector, another beat down the eastern shore.

A Shanghai nationalist garrison communique said Red outriders had appeared near Soochow (Wuhsien) 40 miles west of Shanghai. Either column in a thrust south would cut land communications between Shanghai and South China.

A communist broadcast heard in Shanghai said the "bulk" of the government's 20th and 99th armies were "wiped out." It asserted more than 13,000 troops were "wiped out" and an equal number captured.

(The location of this fighting was not given. Presumably it was somewhere on the front around Nanking, Red-occupied nationalist capital.

(Neither side had anything to say about the fighting on the front around Hankow. There about 200,000 nationalist troops last were facing communist veterans from Manchuria. The Reds had a numerical advantage of two to one.)

Correspondent Confined

No news came out of Nanking. Associated Press Correspondent Seymour Topping reported from Nanking that communications were disrupted. He indicated he was confined to his house by communist guards.

U. S. Consul John Cabot estimated 100 Americans had boarded U. S. Naval vessels here for removal in an emergency. Most of them were women and children. That still would leave 2,400 Americans in Shanghai.

Another group of Americans is expected to board the President Liner Wilson, which is due tomorrow from Hong Kong. The size of this group was not estimated.

A British consular official said 150 British citizens would leave on the Dutch steamer Boissevain. Only one Frenchman had registered to leave.

The Eldorado, flagship of Vice Adm. Oscar C. Badger, commander of the Western Pacific Fleet, sailed north from Shanghai on the Whangpoo River to the greater safety of the Yangtze.

Mother Keeps Son 33, In Room 10 Years

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Brooklyn police tonight rescued a 33-year-old man who they said had been held a prisoner in a sealed room for the past 10 years by his mother.

Police identified the man as Paul Makushak.

They said he had a long beard, described his appearance as "filthy," and said he apparently had had no change of clothing in the past 10 years.

The strange story, police said, came to light after the mother, Mrs. Anna Makushak, was forced to enter a hospital because of illness.

House Opens Debate On T-H Repeal

Packed Galleries Attend Session

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Before packed galleries, the House plunged into stormy debate today over an administration bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

Rep Lesinski (D-Mich), sponsor of the repeal measure, shouted that the present law was "driven through Congress" two years ago "in a spirit of hysteria and vengeance."

But Rep. McConnell (R-Pa) told the House that the Lesinski Bill would cut out a provision of the present law "which enabled the atomic energy commission to protect atomic secrets from Communist labor officials."

McConnell went on:

"As a matter of fact, this (Lesinski) bill encourages the infiltration of Communists and their leaders into unions and opens the door to complete communist domination of unions."

McConnell said the administration-backed measure would deprive the government of the power it now has under the Taft-Hartley Act to deal with national emergency strikes. He said it would also abolish pricisions "protecting the political freedom of individual workers."

Spectators' galleries were jammed as the heated, arm-waving debate opened. Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) had to admonish the visitors against applauding speeches on the floor.

House leaders said a final vote is not expected before late Friday.

The debate was formally launched by Chairman Lesinski of the House Labor Committee, whose bill would kill the Taft-Hartley Act and reinstate the old "New Deal" Wagner Act along with some changes recommended by President Truman.

Arrayed against the Lesinski bill were backers of a substitute measure by Rep. Wood (D-Ga). These were chiefly Republicans and Southern Democrats, with a sprinkling of Truman Democrats. The Wood Bill would retain most of the Taft-Hartley Law, while repealing it in name.

Shortly before the session began, Rayburn predicted to newsmen that the Wood Bill will be defeated. A vote on it is expected Thursday.

Fliers Land After 1,008 Hours

Set Endurance Mark By Flying For Six Weeks

Engine Monotony "Worst Thing" Of Entire Flight

By FRANK FRAWLEY

FULLERTON, Calif., April 26 (AP) —Six weeks of droning monotonously through the skies ended today for Bill Barris and Dick Riedel. They boosted the world's endurance flight record to 1,008 hours, landing at 11:45:50 a. m. (PST) to the cheers of their townspeople.

Tired, but smiling and freshshaven, the two Fullerton airport employes were able to walk away from their little Aeronca monoplane, "The Sunkist Lady," without help.

Monotony Worst Thing

"We're pooped, but we'll be all right in a short time," said the 36-year-old, graying Barris. "The worst thing was the monotony of the engine. It just about drove us crazy. We'd never try it again. This is our last try."

His blond partner, Riedel, 34, was first out of the plane. He quickly embraced his wife, June, and two children, Dickie, 10, in a wheelchair with arthritis, and Barbara, four. Barris' wife, Betty, and their two children, Patty, two, and Steven, one, were right there, too.

An estimated crowd of 8,000—half of Fullerton's population and then some—turned out to welcome the boys back to the field they left March 15.

Thus, after three previous unsuccessful attempts, Barris and Riedel became the first fliers to stay up more than 1,000 hours consecutively. Their flying took them to Florida and back.

On April 14, they passed the previous endurance record of 726 hours set by Wes Carroll and Clyde Schlieper of Long Beach, Calif.

"A shower and a haircut," was Barris' first request. Riedel wanted "a bath, rubdown and dinner—haircut later,"

Three Ticklish Moments

Riedel said that there were only three ticklish moments in the whole flight, which was conducted by refueling from a jeep which followed them from airport to airport. These came during storms over Fort Worth, Florida and Beaumont. The carburetor iced up in the Texas storms.

How about sleep?

"Actually we're right up on our sleep," said Barris. "We'll just have to get used to sleeping more than four hours at a stretch."

The biggest thrill of the flight?

"Easy," laughed Riedel, "this landing."

After an airport reception, the fliers were hustled off to a hotel for a checkup by doctors who pronounced them "both in fine shape." It was a big day for Fullerton citizens, 2000 of whom had chipped in $1 apiece to help keep the boys aloft.

Barris said: "we credit a great deal of our success to the diet which our nutritionist prescribed for us. It really was the McCoy."

Fliers Are Reunited With Families

Girl, 25, Tells Jury Of Spying On Communists

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP) — An attractive girl told a story before a Federal Jury today of seven busy years as an FBI counter-spy in the Communist Party.

Angela Calomiris, a dark-haired protographer, was the latest government surprise witness at the conspiracy trial of 11 top communists.

In a soft voice she said she joined the party in 1942 and kept the FBI informed of what she learned "from the very day I joined."

She stepped lightly from the witness stand at one point and placed a finger on the shoulder of Gil Green, one of the defendants and one time secretary of the Communist Party in New York State.

Miss Calomiris identified him as the man who welcomed her into the party ranks seven years ago. She is about 25 years old.

Under the assumed name of Angela Cole, she testified, she moved freely in lesser communist councils, apparently a loyal, interested member who was entrusted with money and records of the party.

To the moment she sat down in the red leather witness chair, she said, her FBI connection was so carefully shielder that the party still listed her as a member in good standing.

Smiling quickly and adjusting her black dress, she described herself as "a very active communist" from the days when the party conducted many of its activities underground.

Sullivan Quits As Navy Secretary, Fires Broadside At Johnson For Halting Carrier

Price Decline Allows ERC Cut, Truman Declares

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—President Truman notified Congress today that price declines warrant a $157,800,000 cut in Marshall Plan funds.

His move was welcomed on Capitol Hill but a number of legislators predicted that foreign aid spending would be slashed even deeper.

Mr. Truman made his statement in a letter to House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex). He asked the speedy appropriation of $5,272,000,000 to finance the European Recovery Program (the Marshall Plan) to June 30, 1950.

The President said "a number of developments"—the most important being the "price decline in the United States"—make it possible to operate the program for less than the full amount authorized.

Congress recently set a ceiling of approximately $5,430,000,000 on economic co-operation expenditures to mid-1950. The money still must be provided and quick action on that was what Mr. Truman asked today.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee told a reporter he thinks there is room for even further cuts beyond the amount suggested by the President.

Republican economy advocates, such as Reps, Taber (NY) and Wigglesworth (Mass), joined in saying they will press for even greater pruning of the appropriation.

An appropriations subcommittee, headed by Rep. Gary (D-Va), began hearings today on the Economic Co-operation Administration money bill.

Cannon predicted the hearings would be brief. He said full testimony as to needs of continuing the program was taken in the course of considering the authorization bill. Cannon said it shouldn't take long to get the appropriations measure to the floor.

Predicts Move To End Marines

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — John L. Sullivan resigned today as Secretary of the Navy, firing a roaring broadside at Secretary of Defense Johnson for halting construction of the Navy's super-carrier, The U.S.S. United States.

The New Hampshire Irishman said he was deeply disturbed because Johnson acted "so drastically and arbitrarily" without consultation with the Navy.

And he said he is convinced the move means "a renewed effort to abolish the Marine Corps and to transfer all Naval and Marine aviation elsewhere."

Johnson dismissed Sullivan's attack with a terse statement from his office:

"I regret very much that my old friend and colleague, John L. Sullivan, has joined the aircraft carrier issue on personal grounds, and I believe that he, too, will soon regret his action of today."

Sullivan's resignation, widely expected since Johnson lowered the boom on the big flat-top Saturday, came in an exchange of letters with President Truman. Both of their communications were couched in the polite patter of protocol. Sullivan submitted his resignation "with profound regret." The President accepted it "reluctantly" and with deep appreciation for Sullivan's service.

But Sullivan cut loose his pent-up wrath in his letter to the new Secretary of Defense. The letter, releasd by Sullivan's own office shortly after Mr Truman accepted his resignation, began bluntly:

"On Saturday, April 23, without discussion with the Chief of Naval Operations, without consultation with the Secretary of the Navy, you directed the discontinuance of the construction of the USS United States, the construction of which had twice been approved by the President . . ."

After recounting details of the legislative authority for the 65,000-ton, $189,000,000 craft, Sullivan noted that the final decision was announced by Johnson while he (Sullivan) was in Corpus Christi, Texas.

Hoover Warns Against Jump In S. S. Taxes

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Herbert Hoover warned Congress today against boosting present Social Security taxes, or any other taxes, until the nation's foreign aid commitments can be reduced.

"Already our economy is up to the limit of endurance under this load," he said. "I believe we should go slow and hold further additions to this burden to the absolute minimum.

"When the cold war is over, we can afford many more domestic improvements."

Hoover outlined his views in a letter to Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House Ways and Means Committee. Doughton had asked for Hoover's comments on President Truman's proposals for a vast expansion of the Social Security program.

Hoover heads a commission which has made a series of recommendations for the reorganization of the government. He said in his letter to Doughton that if these proposals were adopted the cost of financing a modest improvement of the Social Security system could be covered "many times over."

Coplon Defense Hints She Would Wed Russ Agent

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—The defense hinted broadly today that Judith Coplon, 27, pretty former G-girl, intended to marry the Russian agent with whom she was seized in an alleged espionage conspiracy.

Defense Counsel Archibald Palmer gave this surprise twist to the case as selection of the jury was completed in Miss Coplon's two-day-old espionage trial. Eight men and four women — including five government workers—were chosen.

Accused with Miss Coplon in a separate indictment in New York is Valentine A. Gubitchev, 32, a Soviet engineer and former United Nations employe. Gubitchev was released today on $100,000 bail. He agreed to a government demand that he must stay inside the Federal District of New York and not enter a dock, ship, airport or airplane. The Soviet embassy posted the huge bail.

Through a series of questions to prospective jurors, Palmer indicated that Miss Coplon may have been planning to marry Gubitchev and even go to Russia to live with him.

The defense strategy was apparently aimed at clearing up the mystery surrounding Miss Coplon's movements before her arrest. FBI agents have said she went through complicated elusive tactics to throw them off the trail.

Way Appears Open For Big Four Meeting

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—The Western Powers virtually accepted today Russia's public proposal to lift the blockade of Berlin in exchange for a four power conference on Germany. But it was made plain that the offer is accepted only if no secret strings are attached.

A State Department statement declared that if Moscow's policy actually stands as it was reported in a dispatch by the Tass (Russian) news agency early today "the way appears clear for a lifting of the blockade and a meeting of the council of foreign ministers."

Unifying Plan Continues

At the same time, however, it was learned that the Russians have been told that the United States, Britain and France do not intend to delay their plans for unifying Western Germany and creating a German government, probably by July 15.

Since some top officials believe that the real Soviet purpose may be to upset these plans, it is still doubtful whether a real and final agreement on the Berlin blockade will be reached.

In Berlin, wariness about the Soviet offer was expressed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American Military Governor; and Ambassador Robert D. Murphy, head of the German-Austrian division in the State Department.

Murphy said the Russian move seemed an effort to swing German opinion away from the proposed German Republic. Clay said that even if the Russian blockade is lifted "it will have no effect whatever on the West German government."

"We are going ahead with our plans," he said.

The 1,000-word State Department report on the situation was issued here as a direct result of the Tass report. The Tass article said in substance that if a date can be agreed on by Russia and the West for a meeting of the Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers then "reciprocal restrictions on communications and trade could be lifted" before the meeting.

Appears To Be Concession

This appeared to be a major concession by the Kremlin. Previously the Russians had insisted on prior settlement of outstanding currency issues in Berlin. On some occasions at least they had taken the position that a foreign ministers meeting should be held more or less simultaneously with the lifting of the blockade.

The Western Powers have long taken the position that they were willing to discuss any German issues with the Soviets—after the lifting of the blockade.

On the basis of today's developments it was not possible to state flately that the Tass report set forth all the conditions which the Russian government might ask of the American, British and French governments in negotiations which have been underway since February 15.

The statement disclosed that the United States, Britain and France have been in consultation on the Berlin crisis since the first Russian feeler for a possible settlement was put out January 30. A detailed statement of the position of the three Western powers will be presented soon to Malik by Ambassador Jessup. The Jessup-Malik talks have all taken place in New York, which is United Nations headquarters.

Luxury Liner Breaks In Two Near Rio Port

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 26 (INS) — The crippled British Luxury Liner Magdalena, put in commission only last month at a building cost of 12 million dollars, broke in two today near the entrance to Rio harbor.

All 350 passengers and most of her crew were removed soon after the 17,500-ton Magdalena tore a hole in her bottom yesterday when she went aground on reefs 30 miles south of Rio De Janeiro in a heavy mist.

There was one casualty among the skeleton crew that remained aboard — first officer Cyril Senior, of Glasgow.

Clay Intends To Continue West Unity

Says Red Offer Won't Interfer

By THOMAS A. REEDY

BERLIN, April 26 (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today the Western allies intend to see a West German Republic established regardless of whether the Russians lift the Berlin blockade.

A similar stand was taken by British spokesmen in London and Lake Success.

The Russians previously have insisted on postponement of plans to set up the West German state as a condition for lifting the blockade.

A Tass announcement early today, however, indicated the Russians had dropped this condition — after Andrei Vishinsky succeeded V. M. Molotov as Soviet Foreign Minister.

Tonight the American-licensed German news agency Dena quoted German sources close to the Soviet Military Administration in Berlin as saying the Russians had received orders from Moscow to make immediate preparations for lifting the blockade.

The Soviet-controlled German news agency ADN and the Red-directed Berlin radio said they had no knowledge of any such order. The British post at Helmstedt — border point where the rail blockade would be lifted — knew nothing of any technical preparations on the Soviet side of the border.

Nevertheless, both Clay and Robert D. Murphy, former political advisor to the military governor and now head of the State Department's German division, took a wary attitude toward the Soviet offer to lift the blockade. This was in contrast to optimism expressed at the State Department in Washington.

Murphy saw the Russian move as an effort to swing German opinion away from the thought of forming a West German Republic. He said he was convinced "the Germans will not be swayed."

Clay declared "it will have no effect whatsoever on the West German government. We are going ahead with our plans."

Vatican Prelate Held In Swindle

ROME, April 26 (AP) — A once trusted Vatican prelate went on trial today charged with swindling more than $1,500,000.

He is Eduardo Prettner Cippico, 43, former keeper of the Vatican archives. He has denied the charges.

Teacher Is Wounded By Pupil Who Was Spanked For Conduct

ARTHUR, Ill., April 26 (AP)—A 16 year old boy, spanked for passing notes, today shot and seriously wounded a country school teacher.

Mrs. Nina Donahoo, 57, teacher at the White School west of here, was shot in the groin by a .38 calibre automatic pistol bullet. She is suffering from shock and loss of blood.

Sheriff Glen W. Braden said Mrs. Donahoo was shot in "revenge" by one of two boys who were spanked by her husband yesterday. The husband, George W. Donahoo, is teacher at the nearby Maple Grove school. He punished the two boys after he caught them passing notes.

The boys are Lloyd Titus, 16, and Glen Phillips, 11. They were captured under a bridge more than a mile from the scene. They surrendered after a deputy fired one shot. No charge was filed immediately.

Braden said both boys and another witness made statements that Titus fired the shot. The sheriff said the statements gave the following account:

The two boys were punished yesterday at the Maple Grove School, about two miles from the White School. After the spanking, the two boys cried to Donahoo that, "we'll get even with you."

This morning, the two boys took the pistol from the home of Phillips' foster parents. They were brought by bus to the White School, from where they usually transfer to the Maple Grove School in another bus. Both schools are in the same new unit district.

The boys approached Mrs. Donahoo in the school yard and demanded her purse. They followed her into the building, where young Titus struck her on the head with the pistol and grabbed the purse as she fell. She got up and followed them outdoors. As she attempted to retrieve her purse, the Titus boy shot her.

Clergyman Is Held After Wife's Body Is Found In Genesee River

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 26 (AP) —A clergyman was ordered held today as a material witness in the pistol-slaying of his 25-year-old wife, whose body was found in the Genesee River.

Rev. George Hetenyi, 40, who has served as a supply pastor in Western New York Episcopal Churches, identified the body of the brown-haired woman as that of his wife, the former Jean G. R. Gareis. But he declared at a court hearing that he "didn't kill" her.

At the couple's home in Amherst, near Buffalo, police said they had discovered a bullet hole and stains that might be blood in the family car.

Justice Daniel J. O'Mara of the State Supreme Court set bail for Hetenyi at $50,000.

At the hearing, Hetenyi asserted that county authorities had tried to force him into "an extreme mental condition."

The Hungarian-born clergyman at first refused to view the body, which was at the morgue. After being brought here by Monroe County authorities from Amherst, he broke a window and overturned furniture in the sheriff's private living room at the jail.

He later explained:

"They won't let me see the bishop. I broke the window so I could tell the whole world."

Sheriff Albert Skinner quoted the clergyman as saying that he had last seen his wife Friday night when he said he took her to see a psychiatrist and then returned home with her.

He asserted that she had left him for three or four days on previous occasions.

In Amherst, Mrs. Caroline Hetenyi, 70, mother of the clergyman, told police she had not seen him from the time he went to the psychiatrist's Friday night until 7 a. m. the next morning.

Canines, Felines, Goats, Birds And Such Vex State Lawmakers

CHICAGO, April 26 (AP)—The dogs are hounding the men and women who write state laws.

Bird bills have brought out pointed differences. Cats on the prowl have caused considerable caterwauling. Goats, too, have butted into the proceedings.

Everything, you might say loosely, wants to get into an act.

A bill introduced in the Arkansas Legislature would have provided a bounty for citizens who killed untaxed dogs. The sponsor said dogs were killing livestock. The House killed the bill.

An Illinois proposal would make the owner liable for damages if his dog bit anybody who is "peacefully conducting himself in a place where he may lawfully be."

Postmen, milkmen and meter readers were all for it. The legislators were told that letter carriers were attacked by dogs 650 times last year. Also that the cost of replacing a pair of postman's [illegible] is $14.75.

There is a similar measure in Missouri. But it draws a fine line. If the dog bit an invited guest, the guest couldn't sue.

The Senate and House in New Hampshire are trying to give each other the bird. The Senate nominated the New Hampshire red hen as the official state bird. The House nominated the chickadee.

The coyote was named as the official animal of South Dakota. The Great Dane has been proposed as the official dog of Pennsylvania.

A lot of folks got their backs up over a bill that went through the Illinois Legislature. It hung a nuisance tag on cats that "run at large." Anybody could grab a stray cat and turn it over to authorities. The owner then could ransom the cat for $1. Gov. Adlai Stevenson interposed an executive veto on this one.

The New Mexico Senate voted to raise cottontail rabbits to the rank of game animals. But the House figured they are just plain animals, and let the matter drop.

North Carolina may prohibit the handling of poisonous snakes.

The goats?

The Indiana Legislature passed a law requiring goats to keep off public highways, and no ifs, ands and butts about it.

Hindu fakirs are considered the most expert jugglers in the world, and some of their feats have puzzled the most keen western students, while some never have been explained.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Sylvester Watkins, in "The Pleasures of Smoking," recalls the declaration of Mark Twain: "Giving up smoking is the easiest thing in the world. I've done it a hundred times." And when Clergyman Charles Spurgeon was asked how a man of the cloth could justify his habit of smoking cigars and a pipe, he replied calmly, "I cultivate my flowers and burn my weeds."

Charlie Gabel, editor of the Michigan State Spartan, assures me that the following three jokes head the campus wit-parade this semester:

1. Wife to husband: "You swore terribly at me in your sleep last night."

Husband: "Who was asleep?"

2. Papa Robin: "How did that speckled egg get in our nest?"

Mama Robin: "Just a lark."

3. During a grouse hunt, two sportsmen were shooting at a clump of trees near a stone wall. Suddenly a red face popped up over the top of the wall.

"Hey, you almost hit my wife!"

"Did I?" cried the man, aghast. "I'm very sorry. Have a shot at mine over there."

Tieups At Railroad Crossings Lessening

Two weeks ago this newspaper found it necessary to speak out in behalf of the people of this community against a constantly increasing nuisance—the blocking of crossings by Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company trains. The practice had become unbearable. We called upon the Mayor and City Council to take whatever steps they deemed necessary to put a stop to flagrant violations of the ordinance governing the movement of trains in and out of railroad yards which, unfortunately, extend into the very heart of the business area.

While the City Council didn't get around to doing anything about it, we are happy to report that since then the situation has greatly improved, thanks to cooperation by Superintendent Morrison of the Cumberland division. His speedy action toward correcting conditions has brought almost unbelievable results. Mr. Morrison, after an investigation as to the cause for the blocking of crossings by a freight train for up to forty minutes, not only found it inexcusable but made a public acknowledgement of the fact through a letter to Mayor Post explaining the reasons and giving assurances that orders he had issued should prevent a repetition of such tieups.

Since then, the only serious delays observed have been caused by trains moving in and out of Cumberland. The longest tieups have occurred when two or more are moving east and west at the same time. As a result, traffic through the downtown areas has been moving more smoothly, thus eliminating possible tieups of hospital-bound ambulances, when delays of five to ten minutes could mean the difference between life and death to their occupants, or of fire-fighting equipment when the fate of a business firm or a home from threatening flames hangs in the balance.

No city could be expected to endure the inconveniences of continual crossing-blockings such as Cumberland had undergone over past years. Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company are fully cognizance of this and we feel quite confident, as Mr. Morrison has already demonstrated, that every effort will be made to avoid reoccurrences.

The Housing Bill As Passed By The Senate

The long-range housing bill that has just passed the Senate is naturally of great interest to all Americans. The heated five-day debate found some Republicans and a few Democrats arguing from opposite sides of the fence.

There were those on the Republican side in the Senate who believed this bill would go far toward socializing the housing industry and would benefit wards of the Government at the expense of the average taxpaying family that tries to build or maintain its own home. Other Republicans believe that the housing problem must be solved in the national interest and that, thanks to high costs and other restrictions it can't be solved by private enterprise alone.

The Senate bill would authorize construction of 810,000 public housing units over the next six years and provide $1,500,000,000 in grants and loans for slum clearance, in addition to $275,000,000 for improvements in rural housing. The strongest argument to be made for the bill is the high cost, both human and economic, of the slums in which millions of Americans still live.

Because of its large Senate majority—of Republicans as well as Democratic votes—the bill is not expected to run into too much trouble of enactment in the House, although similar bills were passed by the Senate last year and in 1946, only to die in the more conservative House. Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), who led the successful opposition last year, is of the opinion that the Senate-enacted bill will probably be passed by the House. He insists it still looks like socialism to him.

There is some talk that an effort will be made to strike from the Senate bill the doubling of a $12,500,000 fund to improve run-down farms. Such a provision, it is argued, had no business in a housing bill in the first place. Its far-reaching and dangerous implications for the future have not been thought out. The amendment was tacked on at the last minute only to forestall a filibuster by radical Senator Langer of North Dakota.

There is so much room for honest differences of opinion about the basic features of this bill that the House should not waste much time on a flagrant political bribe.

In a word, it does propose to throw the government further into the housing business and, if accepted by the House, will impose a severe burden on the nation's taxpayers. No one has attempted to estimate the total ultimate impact of the plan upon the national budget. Neither, apparently, has much consideration been given to the possibility that the execution of so vast a program by the government will result in a scarcity of materials and thus put private builders out of business.

Yet these are questions which ought to be answered before the nation is committed to a long-range enterprise of this sort.

Tendency To Think Of Security As An End Goal

Holgar J. Johnson, president of the Institute of Life Insurance, speaking in North Carolina, noted the present tendency of people to think of security as an end goal—as they had never thought of it before. He attributed it to the anxieties aroused by the depression of the 30's and revived in the current period of world-wide uncertainties. Even life insurance, he said, was just a means and not an end.

Without following this thought into a multitude of fields, we take the single case of exploration. If European rulers, merchants and adventures had been content to play safe, they would have remained at home, and the Americas would never have found a place on the maps. If our own colonists had been content with their seaboard habitat, this country, from the Appalachians west, would have been the tented abode of the Shawnees, Miamis, Sioux, Pawnees, Comanches, Navahos, Apaches and the various Pacific Coast nations—and of nobody else.

Is it to be believed that now a seeming security is everything, and adventure is nothing? (Or to make the question quite practical, is our President right when he seeks to tax venture capital from the field?) For answer we go back to that final scene in Eden between the Lord and Adam. "He drove out the man," says Scripture, and thereafter not sedentary security, but hustling became the lot of our first parent. It proved worth while.

Surgery In Peptic Ulcer

THE PEPTIC ULCER victim usually is advised to have an operation when treatment with alkalis and diet fails to bring relief. The simpler regimen is always given a fair trial. Sometimes a period of hospitalization is recommended to make certain that instructions are being followed to the letter. Further, this "isolation" removes the sufferer from outside environments that might be aggravating the condition.

Surgery is suggested also when complications arise, the most important of which are perforation, obstruction, and hemorrhage. Perforation occurs when the ulcer enlarges to such an extent that it ruptures through the wall and allows stomach juices to leak into the peritoneal capity. This obviously is a painful and shocking experience because gastric acids burn the delicate membranes that are not meant to be in contact with caustic material.

In the presence of this calamity, there is no doubt that something is amiss; the agony encountered by the victim is written on every line of his face. He lies motionless because any movement increases pain. Ordinary breathing is torture hence the sufferer takes short inspirations, giving the appearance of struggling for air. The abdomen is exquisitely tender and the muscles are held so taut and rigid that they are hard as a board. Prostration and shock then ensue. Such cases are surgical emergencies because the opening must be closed as soon as possible.

Obstruction is less dramatic and requires longer to develop. When it occurs, the usual symptoms of ulcer are enhanced because the stomach is forced to overwork in order to force its contents through the narrowed, or occluded part. Vomiting eases distress as it offers an outlet for the accumulated food and generally is located at the exit of the stomach where ulcers are prone to form. If swelling is responsible the condition may be temporary but if scarring is to blame, it can be rectified only by operation in which a new pathway is made so that food can by-pass the obstructing part.

Ulcers bleed when the crater erodes a blood vessel. If this happened on the skin, the flow could be stopped easily but in the stomach, where everything is moist, it is a different matter. Furthermore, a clot formed by coagulation often is digested or breaks loose because of the churning movements of the gastric pouch. Consequently, a pint or more of blood may escape without awareness of the fact. If oozing continues, the stools turn black or the blood is regurgitated; as more and more is lost the individual becomes weak, dizzy, and faint. As a rule, he breaks out into a cold sweat and complains of thirst and shortness of breath.

Collapse comes on if the victim loses too much blood. When the hemorrhage is massive, fainting may be the initial symptom. Transfusions are valuable in such cases. Operation is needed if bleeding cannot be stopped but in the majority of instances, it is controllable without resorting to this measure. On the other hand, if the ulcer victim goes through three or more of these episodes, risking his life with each venture, surgery becomes necessary.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Pittsburgh with a southern accent.

That's what Birmingham, Ala., is, and we had an exciting time doing our show in the Municipal Auditorium there. Of course, owing to the tremendous number of smokestacks and factories, the air is filled with smog. In fact, the smog was so thick that as soon as we landed I went out looking for the Brown Derby.

Landing our plane in the soup was no problem. As soon as the atmosphere got thick, we just put Billy Farrell, our powerful baritone, on a wing and blasted our way through the clouds on "You've Changed."

Birmingham is famous for its coal fields and you meet plenty of coal miners wherever you go. In fact, in the middle of the city there's a monument—John L. Lewis' eyebrows chiseled in granite.

Just before we did our show, the troupe went over to visit one of the blast furnaces. I don't know whether the foreman was hinting or not, but the first thing he showed me was how to smelt.

I wanted to pitch right in with the rest of the husky brutes who handled the red hot ore but, as soon as I got out on the observation ramp, I changed my mind. When I fry, I want the privilege of trial by jury.

Before we got to Birmingham we did our early show at Columbus, Miss., which is so small they had to bring buses from Meridian to take us to Columbus. When we finally got to town, Hy Averback turned to me and said, "What's so great about Columbus discovering America? We discovered Columbus."

Sen. Bridges Challenges Vandenberg On Bipartisan Policy In China; Sen. Bricker Limits Anti-Segregation; Malmedy Trial Probe Backstage Story

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 26 — It wasn't officially recorded, but New Hampshire's Senator Styles Bridges recently struck a sharp blow at the bipartisan foreign policy by demanding that the G.O.P. take its own stand on foreign affairs—particularly in China.

He shot the challenge squarely at Michigan's Senator Arthur Vandenberg, the Mr. Big of the bipartisan foreign policy, during a secret meeting of the Republican policy committee.

The debate got so heated that at one point Vandenberg snorted: "Now, this is within these four walls. There aren't many here, and if this appears in Drew Pearson's column, I won't have too many to check with."

However, here is the story of what happened at the secret meeting.

Bridges called upon the Republicans to stop echoing "me, too" to everything the Administration does and to focus a "little sunlight on the mistakes and questionable policies" of the Democrats.

He charged that China was being forfeited to the Communists and he urged Vandenberg to take a stand on this and demand a review of our China policy. When America realizes its mistake, Bridges argued, then the Republicans could pin the blame upon the Democrats.

Vandenberg retorted sharply that it was easier for Bridges to snipe against our foreign policy because he didn't have the responsibility as G.O.P. foreign-policy spokesman. Vandenberg admitted that the picture is dark for the Chinese anti-Communists, but argued that it was too late to interfere without jeopardizing the chances of salvaging what is left. By intervening now, the United States wouldn't save China but might endanger future relations, Vandenberg argued. He also pointed out that the corrupt governing clique that runs the Central government soaks up most U. S. aid intended for the Chinese people.

Pro-Communist Diplomats?

Bridges snapped back that members of the State Department were sabotaging our foreign policy and demanded that the pro-Communists be flushed out of the service.

At this, Massachusetts' lean Leverett Saltonstall raised a cautioning hand, suggested it was unfair to question the motives of diplomatic personnel.

"If you had a general who commanded an army and lost a battle through incompetence, you would remove him," said Bridges. "If he lost by conspiring with the enemy, you would court-martial and probably shoot him. But the State Department loses country after country and all you do is promote them."

Vandenberg said he didn't know of any pro-Communists in the State Department. Ohio's Senator Robert Taft suggested, however, that the people underneath are often biased and don't give the people on top a true picture.

Tempers flared up at the height of the debate, but cooled off by the time the meeting adjourned.

Bricker Champions Negro?

Ohio's statuesque Senator John Bricker has been posing as the great champion of the Negro by demanding that segregation be outlawed in all public housing projects.

But what the public didn't realize is that Bricker toned down his own anti-segregation amendment, the minute it conflicted with the real estate lobby

Bricker's original anti-segregation amendment would have cut off federal funds, including FHA loans, for any segregated housing project. But when the real estate boys saw this, they realized Bricker would cut off one of their most lucrative sources of money—loans from the Federal Housing Administration. So they hotfooted it to Bricker's office and had him change his amendment so that it abolished segregation for public housing, but not FHA-financed housing.

Note—Bricker's real motive was to inject Civil Rights into the Housing debate so it would turn the southern vote against public housing.

Malmedy Trial

Only one important committee hearing at this session of Congress has been chairmanned by a Republican—Senator Baldwin of Connecticut who presides over the Malmedy trial investigation. Baldwin is one of the ablest and most fair-minded members of the Senate, but there is an interesting backstage story behind his appointment.

It results from the fact that Maryland's dapper Senator Tydings wanted to euchre the probe of the Army's court-martial away from his Democratic colleague from North Carolina, swallow-tailed Clyde Hoey.

Tydings appeared to believe that American officers were justified in using brutality and torture to wring confessions from ex-German Storm Troopers who allegedly took part in the Malmedy massacres during the Battle of the Bulge. Tydings also claimed jurisdiction for his armed services committee—though only after Hoey had ordered his special investigating committee to look into the case. Previously, Tydings had flatly refused to investigate; then changed his mind after learning of Hoey's interest.

Fearing that Tydings would whitewash the brass hats, Hoey suggested turning the investigation over to a joint committee, made up of members from the Armed Services, Judiciary and Expenditures committees.

This started talks between the two that were still proceeding when suddenly Tydings pulled a surprise announcement that his committee would go ahead with its own investigation, and he appointed Senator Baldwin, Republican, to head the probe.

The payoff is that Baldwin's law partner, Dwight F. Fanton, helped the Army prosecute the Malmedy defendants.

Truman Sore At Israel

President Truman, who frequently blows hot and cold over Palestine, has given a private spanking to the new republic of Israel. He is boiling mad at the Israeli government for what he considers an insult to the American Ambassador to Israel, James G. McDonald.

McDonald reported to the President that during a recent interview with the Israeli foreign minister, Moshe Shertok, the minister spoke disparagingly of American aid to Israel. This made Truman so mad he ordered the U. S. representative to the United Nations, Warren Austin, not to object when the United Nations pigeonholed Israel's application for U. N. membership.

Warren's silence shocked the Israeli because they were counting on wholehearted American support for their cause. As a result, President Weizmann is trying to patch things up during personal conferences with President Truman.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, April 26.—(INS)—It cannot be long now before the rarest thing in the world is a rich Englishman. Take a gander, if you please, at that country's latest income and estate taxes:

The income tax brackets begin, so far as single persons are concerned, when a bloke or blokess makes 150 pounds ($600) a year. The tax on that is a quid, or four bucks. But if the person's income jumps another 50 pounds to 200, the tax is seven pounds. Then 19 pounds and then 43 for the next 50 pound jumps.

A single person making a thousand pounds a year, $4,000, pays $1,060 of it back to the government: The $12,000 a year man or woman gives back $4,752 of it. But that's comparatively easy compared to the $40,000 a year man. He coughs up $25,652. The 50,000 pound a year man is permitted to keep just 5,062 of the pounds. The 100,000 pound earner is clipped for 93,688 of the pounds.

There is this consolation among the 100,000 pound a year men, however. If he is married he can deduct 32 pounds ($128) a year for his wife. If he is married and has two children he has to pay back only 93,602 of the 100,000 pounds.

Inheritance taxes will be raised soon to semi-confiscatory rates, if that isn't a conservative use of the hyphenation. Winston Churchill, with all his dependents, is said to have retained $67,000 of the $1,000,000 he received from his memoirs. Britain, which once ruled the waves, refused to waive the rules in Winnie's case.

In a recent piece about the Doolittle Raiders, and what has become of that remarkable crew, I neglected to mention Sgt. Jacob De Shazer. He was one of the survivors of the two plane crews who were captured. Three of his comrades—Dean Hallmark, Bill Farrow and Harold Spatz—were executed by the Japs. A fourth, Bob Meder, died of starvation.

De Shazer has completed his studies as a missionary and is returning to Japan, where he was vilely treated. The terrible privation and beatings he underwent caused him, he said, to examine the forgotten precepts of forgiveness of man. After months of pleading he was permitted to have a Bible for three weeks. He all but memorized it.

In June, 1945, in his Peiping cell, he realized he was dying of starvation. He fell to his knees and began praying. It was against the prison rules. While he knelt there he was beaten until unconscious. But, he writes, it only strengthened his determination to live and return —in friendship.

Frank M. Shore, Jr., a former tennis champion in Washington, D. C. and, more recently, a navy man writes:

"The Veterans Administration is going to make a rebate of about $2 billion dollars to holders of World War II insurance policies. The size of the individual rebates will vary considerably.

"Why couldn't a campaign be organized for the purpose of affording an opportunity to those who might so desire to assign all or a part of their rebate to a foundation for medical research, or for the control or eradication of one or more specific diseases?"

He suggests that the fund be controlled or administered by well-known service men whose ability and integrity were familiar to all.

"It seems to me that if the cooperation of the government could be obtained," he adds, "this plan would afford an almost painless method of raising an enormous sum of money for an exceedingly worthy cause. Here's a chance to support a unified and concerted campaign against ill health with money we nuever expected to get back. Even a five per cent response would amount to $100 million."

Truman-Johnson Decision Calls For Fullest Debate

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 26.—President Truman and Secretary of Defense Johnson have just made a decision so fateful for the future safety of the American people that only the fullest debate can insure policies that will help prevent a disaster to those American cities which may someday become the victims of atomic bombing.

It is conceded here, for instance, that Russia will have the atomic bomb within a few years—possibly as early as 1952.

It is conceded also that no adequate defense has been perfected and that some of the bombs transported by long-range planes will get through to their targets in the United States.

Reliance on only one mode of attack—a 70-group air force—and the surprising elimination of offense and defense by air from large naval carriers capable of carrying the atomic bomb means that the President and his Secretary of Defense are willing to risk the loss of American cities and are unwilling to use any and every means of striking at enemy bases from which long-range bombers can take off.

Strategic Bombing Outmoded

The simple truth is that in the next war it will be of little avail to use strategic bombing just to destroy the enemy's factories. It will be more important to destroy the enemy's stockpile. No country, however, is going to arrange its precious bombs in a neat little pile for any strategic air force to demolish but will disperse the bombs and the bases as well as the factories.

Any notion, therefore, that by striking at enemy factories a war can be won in 30 or 60 days is untenable.

A sensational book entitled "Must We Hide?", which outlines the military aspects of the atomic bomb, has just been published (Addison-Wesley Press, Cambridge, Mass.). It was written by Dr. R. E. Lapp, a nuclear physicist who has worked on the atomic-bomb project from its earliest days. In the preface to his book, he says he is not divulging any secret information but is merely telling some simple truths which anyone can derive for himself from what has been already revealed.

Dr. Lapp says it would be a mistake to rely only on one air force. He decries the trend in Congress to rely solely on strategic bombing, which is the primary mission of the air forces. He writes:

"A powerful strategic air force armed with atomic bombs may deliver a serious blow to enemy production facilities and manpower resources, but it is less capable of striking at the force-in-being of enemy bombers and a-bombs which have been accumulated prior to the outbreak of hostilities.

"It will be of small consolation to the atom-bombed people of Philadelphia to learn that our strategic air force has obliterated Moscow. Or imagine how frustrated air power could be if Russia pushed through Germany, overran the low countries and took France. Would atomic bombs stop such a push? This would be tantamount to asking if the A-bomb could be used as an effective tactical weapon against land armies. . .

"It will be well for Americans to stop thinking that atomic bombs and high-speed bombers are all that we need. How, for example, would these prevent a westward push from the Baltic to the English channel? Would even a very large number of A-bombs prove an effective deterrent to such a push? The author's personal belief is that it would not."

Urges Secrecy On A-Bombs

Dr. Lapp insists that the exact number of A-bombs America possesses should always remain top secret but "to orient the thinking of the average person with regard to the numbers of A-bombs which may be available at some time in the future, we note from Dr. Oppenheimer's testimony before a U. S. Senate committee that it would be possible to accumulate 1,000 bombs within two years provided an all-out effort were made."

Dr. Lapp feels that money should be spent for proper intelligence and for every available means of striking at military installations. The enemy could quickly take over Berlin or Paris or other big cities confident that America would not waste bombs merely to destroy civilians, including her own nationals and those of allied countries.

"Are we going to depend," he asks, "upon the A-bombs alone and, if so, will they be used indiscriminately? There is no doubt that the A-bomb is an effective weapon but it is not a decisive weapon. It will be tragic for Americans to discover this truth too late."

The navy, which has led the world in airplane attack from flat-tops, has sought a chance to develop a super-carrier. It takes five years to build such a carrier and to work out plans for anti-submarine attack and plans for protection of troops that are to land to secure bases.

Refuse To Comply with Congress

Mr. Truman and Mr. Johnson refuse to comply with the wishes of Congress, which has twice approved the carrier program and its experiments. It is incredible that technological advance in new weapons of warfare should be stopped in the face of overwhelming technical evidence of its potentiality.

The issue is one of national safety. Congress, as the institution which alone can protect the American people by providing every means possible to intercept atomic-bomb attack, will have to decide whether Mr. Truman and Mr. Johnson have been stampeded into a wrong decision by certain advocates of strategic bombing who look upon naval aviation as merely a rival. America needs both types of aviation. Even too much now may not be enough later in an atomic war. Since the funds already have been authorized and the Navy is willing to forgo other parts of its program to perfect carrier aviation, it is hard to understand why the administration has taken such a shortsighted view of the defense problems of the United States.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Home Of The Brave

I DON'T want to see a motion picture on "Anti-Negro Bitterness and Hate." I have been asked to see it and I won't go. Maybe I am bigoted on the subject, but I feel that all these grandiose efforts to prove that there are human beings who are prejudiced against other human beings only characterize the obvious and stir ill-will among those who have no bitterness in their hearts or hatred in their minds.

A motion picture that shows love of man for man, that cultivates the brotherhood of man, that allays strike and contention, is more to my liking and undoubtedly a more correct appraisal of the American character.

This particular production is explained in its publicity as follows:

"At the time—before other films like 'Crossfire' and 'Gentleman's Agreement'—Kramer had found it impossible to get production financing for a story with anti-semitism as its theme. Some months ago Kramer revived the idea, and in a moment of inspiration changed the central character from a Jew to a negro, and started to prepare a script in cooperation with Screenwriter Carl Foreman and Director Mark Robson, both of whom were deeply involved in completing for him his already acclaimed hit 'Champion,' starring Kirk Douglas.

"'Actually,' Kramer stated, 'the theme of "Home Of the Brave" remained unchanged, for the basic conflict was the same.'"

Actually, I never read or saw "Gentleman's Agreement" or "Crossfire." Maybe I am an ostrich. Maybe I am an escapist. Maybe I prefer pleasant to unpleasant people. Maybe I only like entertainment in movies and not social significance.

But I cannot help asking myself the question: "Suppose it were just the opposite?"

For instance, in this picture, "Home Of the Brave," the heroic character is a negro and the scoundrel is a white man. Well, suppose it were just the opposite? Suppose the heroic character were the white man and the scoundrel the negro? It would be the same story.

Or better still, suppose both were heroic characters and neither was a scoundrel — it would be an even better story. I actually twisted the characters to see how the story would come out and it makes no dilfference at all, because there are just and unjust men everywhere and in moments of emotional tension, we all act queerly anyhow.

In a word, as I read the material sent to me, I can see no advantage to the story in making a white military officer the villain, except that the author wanted to have a villain and he switched his story from a Jewish to a negro hero because anti-semitism is not as salable a ware as anti-Negroism at the moment. That is evident in the publicity announcement in which this is called "inspiration."

Once in the heat of discussion with a professional in the business of anti-religious, anti-racial bigotry, I suggested that those who live by the pro and con of these subjects organize a union to keep hatred and bitterness from dying down and disappearing, so that they could keep at their jobs.

I do not find among the white leadership of this country any serious or widespread "bitterness and hate, for Negroes." I do not find a white counterpart for Paul Robeson. However, there are vast differences of opinion on the sociology of the Negro problem. Men of goodwill approach that problem with kindliness in their hearts and decency in their intentions. Maybe they find no solutions. Maybe they find solutions that are unacceptable. Maybe they are too swift or too slow. But there is no bitterness or hatred.

Why not obliterate the nightmare that Hitler let loose upon us? Why not devote ourselves to the reconstruction of a world of kindliness, of just human relations, of the association of man and man as indi-

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

For my travelers' checks, Rio de Janeiro is right up there with Paris when it comes to knocking your eyes into the centerfield bleachers. It's as primpy and preeny a city as ever travelogued, and when I first saw it from the Pan-Am airbuggy on the morning of January 9th, I got the impression that a lot of icing had dripped down from Sugar Loaf Mountain.

During our week's stay in the capital of Coffee-land, I got dead struck on its scenery and citizens—the 21st Century skyscrapers from Oscar Niemeyer's drafting board which throw the light right back at the sun, the hill huts of the gypsies a few random yards away, the bon-eyed babes who put the SA in S.A., and the dozens of friendly folk who showed us around and wouldn't take thanks for an answer. But over and beyond all this, I shall always remember Rio as the town where, for the first time in ten years of married life, I got a little respect from my missus.

Before I blueprint this achievement, however, let me tell you about a samba session and the reason Eleanor didn't talke to me for 48 hours.

On our second evening in town, we were the guests of Aloysio de Salles at a beautifully run boite called the Vogue which features a samba orchestra. We arrived at 8 that evening and proprietor Max Stukart seated us at a table a demi-tasse cup away from the bandstand, and before Eleanor could even look at the menu, a gent who was all muscles and mustache piloted her out to the dance floor where, for the next hour, I watched my girl do her own fantastic version of the light fantastic.

I sat and sizzled but said nothing—after all, a gal in our set doesn't get down Sugar Loaf way very often and this was baby's night to howl.

But four hours and four aspirins later, I had had enough. For one thing, I've been too busy putting on dance shows to learn how to dance and, for another, I've been around liquor too long to have any yen for it. And worst of all, the drum-bonging was driving me nuts—a samba band, as you know, is a triphammer that has given birth to a lot of little triphammers.

But still I said nothing although, by the time 3 a.m. rolled around, I was feeling like the last act of "Emperor Jones." Eleanor was still out on the floor dancing, her eyes as bright as thousand-watt bulbs.

At 5 a. m. I couldn't take it any longer. Sunlight was beginning to filter through the cabaret shutters and my ears had had enough of Tympani Alley.

Mrs. McNeil Elected Head Of District

Mrs. James McNeil, Jr., Frostburg, was elected president of the Mountain Conference of the Women's Missionary Society of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Maryland at the 35th annual meeting yesterday in St. Luke's Lutheran Church. Other officers serving with her are Mrs. Donald Brake, vice president; Mrs. Anna Reuschel, secretary, and Miss Helene McKee, treasurer. Mrs. Calvin Keiter was in charge of the election.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Frostburg, extended an invitation to entertain the conference next year.

The principal address of the conference was given by Mrs. W. V. Garrett, president of the Maryland Synodical. Her subject was "Open Doors in Faith." Mrs. Garrett suggested three approaches for her topic: to open doors through wakefulness, through watchfulness and through faithfulness.

Mrs. Earl P. Fertig, treasurer of the Maryland Synodical, discussed "Open Doors Through Love," and reminded her audience of the obligations of the society, pointing out six for each society. She reminded them that the first is the association membership dues; second, active membership dues; third, triennial conventional expense fund; fourth, synodical fee; fifth, thank offerings and sixth, synodical specials.

After supper and the showing of a picture, "Children of the Church," by Mrs. George Glock, Jr., a vesper service was conducted. Miss Helen Lawson, missionary to Liberia, was the speaker. Approximately 350 members attended the sessions.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON—Busy as bloodhounds everybody's been this past week . . . The Daughters of the American Revolution no sooner closed their convention with a fanfare of patriotism than the Newspaper Editors opened theirs.

Congressmen and their wives stood by to answer questions, arrange appointments, and attend festivities for the visiting D. A. R.'s from their States.

Mrs. H. R. Gross, wife of the Representative from Waterloo, Iowa, went to a luncheon for Iowa D. A. R.'s and afterwards hospitably invited delegate to the convention Marian Howard to accompany her home for a neighborly visit.

AUSTINE

Then Mrs. Gross, wife of a newly-elected Republican, got lost driving back to her home! . . . After many lame apologies to her out-of-town passenger, the congressional lady at last made home base . . . Not until she circled circles twice over, consulted numerous pedestrians, even hauled out a map of the Capital.

The D. A. R. delegate still can't decide which is tougher on a freshman congressional couple—the wife threading her way through the city's social and traffic circles, or the husband threading his way through The Hill's red tape.

Few people know that our new "Madame Ambassador," Mrs. Vijaya Pandit from India (she gets here the first part of May) is not only a central figure in world politics, but also in a poignant romance.

Many years ago her brother, Jawaharalal Nehru, became a disciple of Gandhi in India's fight for liberation. Young and graceful Vijaya joined her brother and renounced the Brahmin way of life . . . Including the principle that she could not marry out of "caste."

She fell in love with a young newspaperman, who was not only out of her caste, but also out of her religion . . . His name was Syed Hussain and he was a Moslem . . . He fell in love with her and her ideas, gave up his work, and joined her fight for independence . . . He was then sent by Gandhi to work for his country's cause in the U. S. He lived here in virtual exile, while she carried on the fight in India.

In the meantime, she married another man, also a hero of her country's independence fight, who was later imprisoned by the British and died as a result of that imprisonment.

Finally Mrs. Pandit thought she could marry the man she had first loved . . . But by this time India had gained freedom and she was sent to the U. S. as India's chief delegate to the United Nations. After brief meetings in New York and Washington, fate and the needs of their country again drew the two sweethearts apart. Hussain was sent back to India. Mrs. Pandit was sent to Moscow. When she returned home after that post, Hussain had been appointed ambassador to Cairo.

And that is where, just a few weeks before her Washington appointment was announced, Syed Hussain was found dead in his corner suite at the famous Shepheard's hotel . . . His intimates there swear he died of a broken heart.

• — • — •

There have been very few lady ambassadors in history—but Mrs. Pandit is also a controversial figure in the present East-West dispute. . . . She was the one who first made the contact between Soviet Russia and the new "Britishless" India.

It was at the San Francisco conference, where she arrived incognito and stayed in the apartment of Mrs. Ogden Reid, that she tried to contact the Soviet delegation headed by Russian Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov . . . None of her advisers could think of a way to do it.

With a woman's initiative, Mrs. Pandit shrugged her shoulders, picked up the phone, called the Soviet consulate . . . In flawless Russian, she made an appointment with Mr. Molotov. As simple as that, the first link between these two Asiatic colossuses was established.

Her Excellency, the handsome widow Pandit, has been serving as Indian ambassador to Moscow for the last two years.

• — • — •

Harry's cronies have it that the President really cancelled those speeches in New England because his speech-writer, Clark Clifford, was in the hospital . . . For a minor operation.

Also that the President will replace his economic adviser, Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, with a University of Chicago professor.

• — • — •

Representative Robert L. Coffey, Jr., the young man so tragically killed in New Mexico the other day, not only had a heroic past and a brilliant future, but also an unforgettable sense of humor . . . I especially remember an evening when he kept the dinner table in stitches with jokes, witticisms, and even funny signs he'd seen.

One he'd noticed on 51st Street, in New York, advertised a "Chinese Rathskeller" . . . Another was a sign on a small town church: "The junior ladies' aid will serve an oyster Saturday evening."

Washington had all too short a time to know Representative Coffey and his lovely Puerto Rican wife.

Okay, Girls, Let's Get Those Legs Set For That Barelegged Season Just Ahead

"She walks in beauty, like the night of starry climes and cloudless skies." You can do it, too!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

IF you could see the Powers models performing the art of walking to perfection in the big fashion shows, you'd know just what the poet Byron meant when he wrote: "She walks in beauty, like the night of starry climes and cloudless skies."

Walking beautifully is something every woman who can walk can add to her collection of personal charms. While I am accustomed to seeing the Powers Girls glide along with exquisite grace, I am also accustomed to seeing women walk along the street in a way that shocks me. Although they don't seem to know it, it shocks them too!

The Sound of Your Footsteps

Does a loud sound greet your ears each time you put your foot down as you walk along? If it does, you know just what I mean. With each football your whole system receives a profound shock. You tire easily, you wear down your heels, and walking is no pleasure. But the worst of it is the damage you are doing to your appearance! There's nothing very attractive about the strained, tense look you are jolting into your face . . . the jerky, awkward movements of your walk.

For the sake of your comfort, and to give your walking picture the eye turning beauty you want, run through the following routine and see just how easy it is to turn a clattering step into one so light that it wouldn't even wake a fretful baby:

Literally and figuratively, everything in the correct walk hinges on your hip joint. What you want to do is to make full use of that joint. Stand up now and I'll show you what I mean. Put your hand on your hip joint. Raise your leg straight forward and as high as you can. Swing it forward and backward. Swing it hard and high. Feel the pivotal motion of your hip joint? That's where your walk starts.

Now relax your knee and ankle and step out. Take full advantage of all the swing that is in your hip joint with each step. Aim your weight at the ball of your foot where it belongs.

And now, practice! Practice each morning before you start your day. Exaggerate each step, swinging your leg high from your hip joint. Soon you'll discover that it is second nature for you to always start each step that you take from this joint and lead with your thigh. Soon you will discover that walking is a pleasure and, like the Powers Girls, you will always "walk in beauty."

P. S. from J. R. P.

AVOID "ELEVENTH HOUR FRENZY"—That's what the Powers Girls call it when you fail to do your nails, your hair, your clothing care, on the right days. Then you are frenzied at the last minute. They avoid it, and you can too, by following a definite program during the week. There are certain days best for each grooming activity. I'll send you my "Calendar for the Fastidious" free of charge if you'll write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope. Send for your Calendar today and follow the schedule of the Powers Girls.

Tomorrow: Introducing people and remembering names.

Get your legs set for that barelegged season just ahead. This is the time of the year when legs look pale and dry. What they need now is cleansing, softening and grooming treatments.

When you take your daily bath use a good bathbrush on your legs. Scrub with soap and water. Dry with brisk movements to stimulate circulation.

After chapping by winter winds, legs need a skin softening process. Before going to bed at night rub them with a small quantity of light vegetable oil or a good soothing lotion.

Take your choice of weapons when you decide to do the defuzzing job—and this should become a regular weekly or semi-monthly routine from now on through summer months. There are girls who prefer the razor, either straight or electric. But though this is quick and easy, most girls find that when they use the razor, they need to do the job more frequently.

Wax treatments are perhaps the most long-lasting. They take longer, sometimes when applied by inexperienced hands are a a little painful, but after at least two or three treatments the hair does become lighter and grows in more slowly than with any other method.

Most women find the depilatory creams which come in tubes are easier to handle and do a very efficient job. These are used at home with a minimum if effort—the best way to apply them is by sitting on the bathtub with your legs in the tub. Then when the paste has dried, take a wash cloth and make a test by applying the cloth to a small area of the leg. If the hair comes off, then put your legs under the faucet, let the warm water trickle down them as you remove all the paste with a washcloth.

Every year numbers of small children lose their sight because their parents do not realize the dangers of giving them sharp, pointed toys and toy pistols.

Lewis Delays Meeting With Policy Group

Holds An Extended Huddle With Chiefs

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—John L. Lewis and his district chiefs held a long huddle today, postponing a scheduled strategy session with the United Mine Workers' 200-man policy committee until tomorrow.

The policy group marked time all day, after an opening session Monday. Lewis met behind closed doors with Vice President Thomas Kennedy, Secretary-Treasurer John Owens, and the presidents of the union's 30 districts.

Lewis offered no explanation for the postponement of the policy meeting, which had been set for this afternoon.

Speculation began at once that he had put off the Policy Committee gathering because the soft coal operators are scheduled to meet here tomorrow.

The coal mine owners were called by Ezra Van Horn, operators' trustee for the UMW Welfare and Retirement Fund. The meeting was called a week ago, presumably to give the industry leaders a chance to compare ideas about policy towards Lewis and the miners' demands this year.

The contract expires June 30. Skirmishing between the two sides has begun unusually early. Both union and employer representatives express fear there may be a bitter dispute this summer over pay and the welfare fund royalty.

Lewis' miners are clamoring for a shorter work week, without loss of pay. That is the tone of resolutions on the subject which the policy committee has before it. A total of 1,035 contract suggestions covering all kinds of big and little grievances have been submitted to the Lewis group.

Operators are certain to balk at continuing the present $14.05 rate for shorter work day, or overtime premium pay for hours worked beyond 35 hours a week. The present work week is 40 hours.

Similarly, the miners' resolutions call for boosting the welfare fund royalty from 20 cents to 40 or 50 cents a ton. The present collection is yielding about $100,000,000 a year, but benefits and pensions are being distributed to miners at the rate of nearly $2,000,000 a week.

Operators, beset by softening markets for coal and pressures to reduce prices, are certain to resist any efforts by Lewis to boost the royalty or to increase the labor costs which would add to the price of coal.

With the shrinking of markets and reduced employment in the mines, there is agitation on the miners' policy committee also for a seniority system of layoffs, so that older and experienced men would be last to lose their jobs.

U. S. Cotton Shipments To China Stopped

Cargo Of 17 Ships Diverted To Japan

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—The United States cut off the flow of American-aid cotton to Shanghai today in the expectation that China's great port city will be taken over by the communist armies whenever their leaders give the word.

Seventeen cotton-laden ships bound for Shanghai were ordered diverted to Japan.

Shipments of U. S. rice which for months have helped feed Shanghai's teeming millions are continuing, but it is uncertain for how long.

Economic co-operation Administration officials said deliveries of food and other supplies to Shanghai will cease automatically when the communists take over.

Congress ordered that the remaining $54,000,000 of China aid funds should be used only in non-communist areas.

While official concern continued over the safety of 2,500 Americans remaining in Shanghai, fears for the immediate welfare of Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart at Nanking were allayed by messages from Stuart to the State Department.

These implied that the communist troops which occupied the former nationalist capital have not interfered further with Stuart or his staff since armed soldiers invaded his bedroom in the embassy residence early yesterday.

The communist soldiers were reported to have told a servant then that Stuart was not to leave the premises but left no formal order.

Americans in Peiping and Tientsin have been allowed free movement since the communists took over those cities.

The diverted cotton cargoes were originally destined for textile mills in cities near Shanghai which now have fallen to advancing communists.

ECA officials said mills inside Shanghai itself can continue operating for some time with stocks of raw cotton on hand. They are hopeful that suspension of further shipments will not arouse Chinese resentment which might increase the uncertainties of Americans remaining in the city.

Only a few hours before the ECA announcement, the North China communist radio demanded that the United States and other foreign powers withdraw all their armed forces from China.

5 doctors prove this plan breaks the laxative habit

If you take laxatives regularly—here's how you can stop!

Because 5 New York doctors now have proved you may break the laxative habit. And establish your natural powers of regularity. Eighty-three per cent of the cases tested did it. So can you.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead: Every night for one week take 2 Carter's Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then—nothing!

Every day: drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity.

Five New York doctors proved this plan can break the laxative habit.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's Pills "unblock" the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers.

Further—Carter's Pills contain no habit-forming drugs.

Break the laxative habit . . . with Carter's Pills . . . and be regular naturally.

When worry, overeating, overwork make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's Pills temporarily. And never get the laxative habit.

Churchill Terms China Incident Party 'Muddling'

Attlee Accepts Full Responsibility

LONDON, April 26 (INS)—Winston Churchill angrily accused the Laborite Government tonight of "muddling" in China by not having aircraft carriers there to retaliate against "murdering" communists who killed and wounded scores of British seamen.

In an embittered House of Commons session Prime Minister Attlee defended British policy and said "I take full responsibility." His Laborite comrades shouted accusations that Churchill's conservative party "wants war".

Churchill termed the Chinese communist shelling of the four British warships an "atrocious outrage" at which there is national resentment.

The wartime Prime Minister asked why there were not several aircraft carriers on hand "capable of affording protection in the only way it is understood by those attacking, murdering, and insulting us—namely by effective power of retaliation."

"We have suffered a most serious injury and our prestige is affected," added Churchill. "Is this to be the end . . . this matter cannot be allowed to go by default with a mere statement of facts by the Prime Minister and passive acceptance by Commons.

"The government must face this robustly and insure that the British flag is respected and British lives not cast away."

Attlee heatedly denied Churchill's charge that the government had muddled in the situation or tried to hide behind the decisions of British officers on the spot.

The Prime Minister traced British policy of "non-intervention" in China and explained that the dispatch of the British Sloop Amethyst up the Yangtze River, which touched off the clashes, was "correct."

Attlee explained that the communist ultimatum deadline to the nationalists was 24 hours away when the Amethyst was sent up the stream to help the destroyer Consort look after British interests and nationals.

After the Amethyst was fired on and grounded, he said, other British ships that tried to aid it "only fired to silence attackers."

Attlee also said that the nationalist regime still was the properly constituted authority in China and had approved the movements of the ships.

The communists, he said, rejected all conciliation efforts of Britain to get the Amethyst out of the danger zone. Attlee rejected as "fantastic" the communist charge that Britain directly aided the nationalists in the civil war by firing on communist positions.

Business Future Good

Cavanaugh Is Acquitted By Mineral Jury

Forgery Charge Case Continued

KEYSER, W. Va.—Charles Chester Cavanaugh, 22-year-old Keyser resident, was found not guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, by a 12-man jury in Mineral County Circuit Court yesterday.

Cavanaugh was indicted for contributing to the delinquency of Ellen Davis, 16-year-old Mineral County resident, after he allegedly took her from a school bus on the evening of February 16 and took her to a home on Limestone Road.

Cavanaugh was arrested that evening about 8:30 by Mineral County Sheriff F. G. Davis upon complaint of the girl's parents, when she did not return on the bus.

The girl, the first state witness to take the stand, said Cavanaugh flagged the bus about two miles out of Keyser on the Green Mountain Road and told her her uncle had been seriously injured and that her aunt wanted her at once. The girl said she and her younger brother left the bus and accompanied Cavanaugh.

However, she testified, instead of taking her to the home of her aunt, Cavanaugh took her to a residence on Limestone Road where they stayed several hours, later taking her brother to the home of relatives at Potomac Heights. She then related that they went to a tavern in Maryland and later returned to the residence on Limestone Road where Cavanaugh was apprehended by Sheriff Davis.

The girl testified that Cavanaugh had at no time abused or molested her and that she had visited him on several occasions while he was a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital.

Cavanaugh testified on the stand that he and the girl had been sweethearts since childhood and that he believed she was older than 16. He also testified that she had written him several letters while he was hospitalized at Valley Forge Hospital.

Cavanaugh was represented by Attorney H. G. Shores, who pleaded for a "not guilty" verdict in order that Cavanaugh might return to the Valley Forge Hospital for treatment of his arm.

The case of Harry Fertig, indicted on a charge of forgery on an application for a motor vehicle title, was continued until the July term of Mineral County Circuit Court on motion of Prosecuting Attorney Don C. Hott.

Helen Kitzmiller and Fred Paugh indicted for cohabitation, entered pleas of guilty to the charge yesterday and were each fined $50 and costs and given a four-month suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for three years. They were represented by Attorneys H. R. Athey and H. P. Shores.

Ezra Arnold, 57-year-old Wiley Ford man, charged with attempted statutory rape of an 11-year-old Wiley Ford girl, entered a plea of guilty to assault and battery and was sentenced to Mineral County Jail for five months.

The Circus

The opening of the circus season at Madison Square Garden in New York City is an event of no mean importance. It's historic for many a child. For here is to be seen entertainment such as nothing else in all the world. Truthfully can the Ringling Brothers call their show the "Greatest Show on Earth."

When I was a boy I was not allowed to see a circus in its Big Top. I could only stand and watch the parade go by, leaving my dreams for a later time. But when that later time came something very wonderful had been lost forever, for who can preserve the first thrills and excitement of the child's first visit to the circus, except that child?

It was long after maturity when I first saw the circus in all its glory in Chicago. Each year, however, the circus has grown. There have been many famous ones, but the best of them all seems to have finally melted into the one now known as Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey, and to that show on its opening in New York City a friend and myself took our way.

This entire show is a pageant of beauty, skill and innovations from start to finish. There we saw many of the old favorites, including that sad-faced Emmett Kelly clown, and dozens of others who were not sad, but all jollity. Great parades, realistically picturing the literature of childhood, twenty elephants under one roof, trained animals, and performers that fascinated and filled one with wonder at their exploits. And such clean entertainment. No one can leave this stupendous show and not feel glad that he went—but especially is this the child's show. His or her great event.

Never have I seen such beauty as shown by some of the pageants in this latest show. But the entire show is worth traveling miles to see. Here you will see the wildest animals brought under control by kindly treatment, and unbelievable tricks performed by them. Beautiful girls in their colorful dresses—many whose names are household ones with confirmed circus fans. And all clean living, healthy and inspiring, for they have to be this way to do the remarkable stunts that they exhibit.

James Waldo Fawcett, of the Washington Star, has a daughter who is a confirmed Circus fan. She has followed the Circus all over the country and has recently written a most interesting book called "We Fell in Love with the Circus." It is filled with her own pen drawings, and her brother and father have added their bit with fine photographs.

The American circus is as confirmed an institution as the Capitol at Washington or baseball.

Clay Urges Formation Of Europe Association

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor in Germany, urged today that Germany be integrated into an association of the free nations of Western Europe.

Formation of such an association, he said, "will make it difficult for the Communist front to keep intact. It is the only sure way to peace."

In a message to the annual luncheon of members of the Associated Press, Clay reviewed events leading to the agreement of the United States, Britain and France for establishment of a West German government. With its establishment, he said, military government will cease.

Boettner Gets Liquor Post

The Allegany County Liquor Control Board appointed Fred W. Boettner, Frostburg, to the group for a six-year term at a meeting yesterday.

He succeeds Fred W. Crowe, also of Frostburg, whose term expired April 18.

Boettner was sworn into office by Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden.

Other members of the board are Walter C. Capper, chairman, and Horace P. Whitworth, Sr. The group will hold hearings on license renewals tomorrow and Friday.

Boettner, who lives at 5 Loo Street, Frostburg, stated on his application for the post that he was secretary of the Equitable Savings and Loan Society of Frostburg, a lifelong Republican member of the Aircraft Warning Service during World War II, and re-employment committeeman of the Frostburg Draft Board. He is associated with the insurance firm of Boettner and Boettner.

About 30 persons applied for the Liquor Board position which pays $2,000 annually. Upon expiration of a term of office the two remaining members of the board appoint a successor.

Charles Richard Wright, 23 Mechanic Street, and Irene Loueta James, 24 North Mechanic Street.

Four Apply For Recreation Post

The city has received four applications for the position of recreation director, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The Mayor said he is planning to reactivate the old City Recreation Board, if possible, which would serve and screen the four applicants.

He added that he will try to call a meeting of the old board the first of next week. He is also planning to enlist City Attorney Thomas B. Finan as advisor to the group.

Members of the old board are Charles L. Kopp, John J. Long, J. Suter Kegg, Mrs. Eric Roeder, Clifton Van Roby, John J. Spiker and Clair M. Mease.

Some of the members of the board resigned, Mayor Post said, but it is hoped they will consent to serve again.

B. And O. Shops On Fast Time Today

Some 1,000 workers will be affected by a reported change to Daylight Saving Time in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Shops which became effective at 2 a. m. today.

The action will not effect the train schedules which are understood to remain on Standard Time.

All departments of the B. and O. have been on Standard Time since the city's fast time ordinance became effective Sunday.

The action is believed the result of mixups in bus schedules for many workers who are dependent on buses for transportation to and from work.

$114.35 Forfeited On Motor Violations

Garnett M. Yost, Sr., 145 Maryland Avenue, forfeited bonds totaling $114.35 when he failed to appear yesterday for hearings on three state motor charges in trial magistrate court

Yost forfeited $101.45 on a charge of operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, $6.45 for reckless driving and the same amount for not having a license.

Trooper G. M. Rotruck apprehended Yost early yesterday on Route 40 at Narrows Park after he noticed his machine "weaving" on the road.

Public To Visit New Infirmary May 29 And 30

The public will be able to inspect Allegany County's new $250,000 infirmary May 29 and 30 before its formal opening June 6.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners decided yesterday to open the institution in early June because most of the larger pieces of equipment have been installed. Only the placing of venetian blinds on 94 windows remains to be done.

The infirmary will be open to the public May 29 and 30 from 2 to 6 p. m.

The new infirmary has facilities for the care of about 100 patients and a full complement of practical and registered nurses will staff the institution.

The two-story infirmary has a full basement with a laundry room equipped at a cost of $15,000, heating plant and other essentials. A large kitchen and various offices are also included. In addition to the $150,000 expended in erecting the building, more than $75,000 has been expended in equipping the infirmary.

Yesterday the commissioners ordered that $20,000 in public liability insurance be placed on the building with the insurance firm of Boettner and Boettner, Frostburg, being awarded the policy. An additional $60,000 insurance on equipment of the structure will be taken out. The building itself is heavily insured.

Officials of Allegany Hospital have submitted a list of seven incurable and chronic patients who should be admitted to the infirmary.

U. S. "Reign Of Terror" Charged At Red Rally

PARIS, April 26 (AP) — Howard Fast, American writer, told a huge outdoor rally of partisans of the Communist-sponsored World Peace Congress yesterday that a reign of "terror is only beginning" in America.

"Every voice raised against war is denounced by the Truman government as an act of treason," he said. "Already the prisons are filled with political prisoners."

Fast spoke at a gathering of about 25,000 adherents of the Congress, many of whom came in caravans from all parts of France, in Buffalo Stadium on the outskirts of Paris. The rally was part of the six-day Congress which closes today.

The mariners' compass was first generally used by Europeans in the 14th century. Ways of finding the longitude of a ship at sea were not invented, however, until the 18th century.

Commencement Dates Set For High Schools

Allegany County's high schools will have commencement exercises June 9, 10 and 11 and all but three have obtained speakers, according to Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent of schools.

Fort Hill, Central, Bruce, Barton and Carver High Schools have set their exercises on Thursday, June 9. On the next day, exercises have been scheduled for Allegany, Beall, Oldtown, Mt. Savage and Cresaptown. Flintstone High School will hold its exercises Saturday, June 11.

Dr. Walter D. Head, author, commentator, educator and headmaster of Nichols School, Buffalo, and Montclair Academy, Montclair, N. J., will be speaker at the Fort Hill and Allegany commencements, Kopp said.

He is a member of the National Community Survey Commission for Economic Development and was awarded the Goodrich Medal for Distinguished Citizenship at the World's Fair in 1940. He served as president of Rotary International in 1939-1940.

Attorney William M. Somerville, this city, will be the commencement speaker at the Central High School exercises.

Rev. W. Hamilton Aulenbach, rector of Christ Church and St. Michael's Episcopal Church, Germantown, Philadelphia, will speak at Beall and Bruce High Schools.

Barton will hear Lloyd H. Hinkle, former superintendent of county schools in Bedford County, Pa.

David G. Nuzum, head of the English Department of Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., will speak at Cresaptown.

Circuit Court Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., this city, will be the speakers for the Flintstone finals.

Speakers for Carver High School, Oldtown, and Mt. Savage have not been announced.

Investigation Ends

The State's Attorney's office reported yesterday that no further action is planned with regard to a Furnace Street man who was held for creating a disturbance and possessing two guns.

The man, identified as James M. Sommerville, 515 Furnace Street, was questioned in the State's Attorney's office.

Beacuse of a revenue tax on sheet paper, rolls of wallpaper such as are in use today, were not used in England until 1830.

WOMEN EVERYWHERE DEMAND
BlueRibbon BREAD

MIRROR of your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Do some men make their wives "scapegoats"?

Answer: Yes, just as some women do their husbands. As the scapegoat in the Bible had all the sins of the people laid on his head, a man may persuade himself that all his failures and shortcomings are somehow his wife's faults. This allows him to take out on her his rage, not only at the world for not appreciating him, but at himself for falling short of his goals. Indeed, since nobody likes to take blame which he can shift onto someone else's shoulders, every married person is occasionally tempted to follow this pattern.

Have prejudiced people "rigid minds"?

Answer: That is how psychologist Milton Rokeach describes people who are "ethnocentric"—or as we should say, race-conscious. Tests of college students showed that those who have this attitude tend to see everything in concrete terms and lack the imagination to find shorter but less obvious methods of solving their problems. The real cause of the "rigidity" is that they are emotionally timid and feel their security is threatened by the idea that their neighbors cannot be judged on some obvious basis like their race or color.

Can wanting a million dollars be an "escape"?

Answer: Yes. To many people becoming a millionaire is the modern equivalent of the "magic wand" which will make all your wishes come true, regardless of whether they are actually possible to satisfy, or even of whether you know what they are. There are valid reasons for wanting to be rich, but if you imagine being rich will make you happy without bothering to understand yourself or learning to get on with other people, then however "practical and realistic" you think you are, you are trying to escape from life.

Physicians Approve Health Insurance Plan

BALTIMORE, April 26 (AP) — A medical insurance program covering some doctor bills at home, office or hospital, was approved today by the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland.

The faculty, top policy - making body for the state's physicians, opened a three-day gathering to commemorate the organization's 50th anniversary.

Approval of the insurance plan followed a 30-minute discussion during which one delegate termed it an "appeasement" of federal efforts for a compulsory health insurance program.

The delegate, Dr. Norman E. Sartorius, Jr., Pocomoke City, said his Worcester County group opposed any health insurance plan. He said any effort to appease proponents of a federal health plan "would not have any more effect than Chamberlain's umbrella at Munich."

Rooster Still Alive

RUSHVILLE, Ind., April 26 (AP)—Red, a Rhode Island rooster, lost his head today but was still alive and strutting tonight.

Red was decapitated by Verlin Coons, 19, son of Mayor Russell Coons, who operates the Coons Poultry Market. Young Coons tossed the roosted in a barrel along with several others he had beheaded.

Coons said he was amazed a little later to see Red walking around in the barrel. He took the rooster out, and he said Red strutted around and shook his neck.

KEYSER, W. Va., April 26—Bob "Lefty" Crump, of Mt. Savage, and Johnny Fitzpatrick of Washington, D. C., pitched Potomac State School's baseball team to a double victory over Montgomery Junior College of Bethesda, Md., here this afternoon.

In the opener Crump notched his third straight victory of the season, limiting the Marylanders to one hit, a single by Oremland in the third inning. The Catamounts' southpaw ace fanned an even dozen and issued two bases on balls. Bob Muir contributed a two-run triple in the third and Neill Gutshall batted in two tallies with a double in the 5th.

Fitzpatrick registered his second win of the campaign by turning back Montgomery in the nightcap, 2-1, in seven innings. Doubles by Pete Ladygo and Gutshall decided broke a 1-1 deadlock in the 6th. Olenik's homer in the 3rd was the visitors' lone score. Gutshall obtained three of State's seven hits.

Victorious in five out of six starts, Potomac State plays Shepherd College at Shepherdstown on Thursday. Box:

Dodgers Execute Triple Play And Beat Braves, 5-2

Hermanski Features Victory Over Sain

NEW YORK, April 26 (INS)—Gene Hermanski, appearing in the starting line up for the first time this season, was conspicuous on the attack and started a triple play today and the Dodgers beat the Braves, 5-2.

Gene Hermanski Dodgers

Replacing Cal Abrams in the outfield, Hermanski proved the big factor in Johnny Sain's second straight defeat. He hit a homer in the opening inning to tie the score. Next, he engineered the Dodgers first triple play in five years to stop the Braves cold, just when they were getting to Preacher Roe.

Sain and Eddie Stanky set the stage by starting the second inning with singles. Alvin Dark followed with a looping fly on which Hermanski made a spectacular grass-top catch. The base runners were snuffed out on Hermanski's quick throw to Jackie Robinson and the latter's relay to first.

Hermanski singled on his fourth time at bat, and previously was robbed of a double by Clint Conatser's running catch. However, Conatser's seventh-inning muff of a fly staked the Dodgers to two unearned runs.

Both Boston runs resulted from homers by Dark in the first inning, and Earl Torgeson in the ninth. Box:

Phils Spill Giants

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (INS)—The New York Giants today were knocked out of first place in the National League standings when the Philadelphia Phillies took a hitting bee by 12 to 11 in 11 innings.

The Giants took a 11 to 9 lead in the upper half of the 11th, with the aid of a pinch two-bagger by Jack Lohrke, but the Phils bounced right back to clinch the game in the under side of the frame with a three-run rally which included a two-run homer by Del Ennis.

Schoolboy Rowe, last of five Phil hurlers to see service, was credited with the win and Andy Hansen, last of four Giants on the hill, was charged with the defeat. Box:

Gerry Coleman Stars As Yanks Defeat A's, 5-4

Homer Decides Game, Marchildon Injured

NEW YORK, April 26 (INS)—The Philadelphia Athletics lost Phil Marchildon for an indefinite period and today's game to the astounding Yankees, 5-4, when recruit Gerry Coleman's fourth hit went for a two-run homer in the eighth.

The big blow produced the tying and winning runs, coming at the expense of Alex Kellner, who replaced Marchildon when the latter injured his arm after pitching only two balls in the first inning. Yogi Berra's homer staked the Yanks to a one-run lead to open the second, with Coleman's single driving in another before the inning closed.

The recruit thus accounted for three of the Yankee runs, with three singles and a home run.

Tommy Byrne was forced out in favor of Joe Page in the seventh, the latter holding the Athletics at bay to get credit for the victory.

It was the Yankees' seventh in eight games played since opening day. Box:

Tony Zale, Former Middleweight Champion, Announces Retirement

Belloise May Land Fight With Cerdan

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, April 26 (AP) — Tony Zale, former world's middleweight champion, today announced his retirement from the ring—thus stepping aside as the No. 1 contender for the crown now held by Marcel Cerdan.

Tony Zale

Cerdan, who had been scheduled to face Zale in a return match at New York's Polo Grounds June 21, now probably will meet Steve Belloise, formidable 160-pound New Yorker. The date will be either June or September, depending upon arrangements by the tournament of champions.

Zale, the always popular, but slightly rusted "man of steel" from Gary, Ind., will be 36 years old next month.

In surrendering his claim to a rematch with Cerdan, Zale passed up a $60,000 guarantee as his share of the bout.

"It was to satisfy my pride that I wanted to meet Cerdan again," Zale explained. "But now I'm satisfied to rest on my past."

Punching professionally since 1934, Zale held the middleweight crown for eight years, from 1942 to 1948, except for a brief time in 1947 when he lost to Rocky Graziano in the second of their vicious three engagements.

When Zale flattened Graziano in the third round of their last tangle June 10, 1948, at Newark, N. J., he became the only other dethroned middleweight champion ever to regain his title. The other was Stanley Ketchel, who lost it to and regained it from Billy Papke.

Zale lost his title the second and last time to Cerdan on a technical knockout in the 12th round of a battle fought in Newark last Sept. 21.

Zale had entered that bout with the understanding that he would get a return bout if Cerdan won, and that had been scheduled for next June 21.

Archie Moore Beats Johnson In Philly Bout

Latter's Long Win Streak Is Stopped

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (AP) — Veteran Archie Moore tonight won a unanimous 10-round decision over previously unbeaten Harold Johnson in the first of two elimination bouts to determine a challenger for Freddy Mills' light heavyweight crown. Both fighters weighed 172.

It was the 21-year-old Johnson's first defeat in 25 professional fights.

For Moore, experienced and unrelentless St. Louis, negro, the victory means a crack at the winner of the Joey Maxim-Gus Lesnevich battle in Cincinnati May 23.

The winner of that elimination is to be recognized as the No. 1 American challenger for Mills' world light-heavyweight crown.

Moore started out slowly but always aggressive. The youthful Philadelphian threw left jab after left jab but Moore remained unruffled.

Johnson piled up points, winning the opening three rounds easily — but he didn't strike a really hard blow. Neither did Moore. And the Convention Hall crowd of 6,018 that paid $15,106 booed lustily.

Oma Stops Fitzy

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 26 (AP) — Lee Oma, Detroit heavyweight, won his eighth straight ring victory tonight by knocking out Fitzie Fitzpatrick of Los Angeles 104 seconds after their scheduled 10-round bout started.

Oma, the favorite, opened up his barrage by staggering the hard-hitting but slow-moving Fitzpatrick with a sharp right to the jaw before the KO process began.

He used a pair of snappy lefts to set up Fitzpatrick for another smashing right to the jaw for the knockout at 1:44 of the first round.

Oma weighed 189½. Fitzpatrick, whose hometown is Oak Hill, W. Va., but who fights out of Los Angeles, weighed 179¾.

Petersburg Defeats Circleville, 11 To 2

PETERSBURG, W. Va., April 26—Gilt-edge relief pitching by Norris Dolly coupled with a 12-hit attack enabled Petersburg High School's Vikings to defeat Circleville High School today at Circleville by the score of 11 to 2. It was Petersburg's third straight victory after losing its opener.

Dolly, who started back of the plate, relieved Smith in the second inning, fanned the side, racked up a total of nine strikeouts and yielded only one run in six innings.

Circleville was held to two hits, one being a homer by Lambert in the first frame. Gus Smith poled a four-bagger for Petersburg in the 7th with one aboard. Score:

Vance Yields 3 Hits, Jackets Beat Romney

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., April 26—Johnny Vance outpitched Bob and Bill Sirk today to give the Moorefield High School Yellow Jackets a 5 to 1 decision over the Pioneers of Romney High School.

Two walks, two hits and an error enabled Moorefield to score three runs off Bob Sirk in the first inning and after another run crossed the platter in the second Bill Sirk took over the pitching chores for Romney.

Vance pitched three-hit ball and struck out seven. Bob Sirk struck out two and Bill Sirk fanned six.

Moorefield will play host to Charles Town High School Thursday at 3 p. m., E.S.T. Score:

Taran Cops Main Event At 'Graw

Favorite Wins Over Miss Dow By Head

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 26 (AP)—Sylvester W. Labrot's Taran squeezed through on top of a four-horse finish in the Cardiff Purse here today.

The Derby and Preakness eligible grabbed the close decision from among nine 3-year-olds. Taran was just a head in front of Miss Dow and only a nose separated the next two finishers. Rarco Stable's Bull was third and Adile fourth.

Taran, the public's betting choice, paid $5.40 to win. The purse was worth $1,950.

Up Beat Is Winner

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—Isidore Bieber's Up Beat just lasted to win the Glenmore Classified Handicap at six furlongs, feature of today's card which attracted a crowd of 21,66[illegible] fans.

Hustled by Hedley Woodhouse, U[illegible] Beat went away from the gat[illegible] winging, followed by Royal Blood, Tavistock and Kitchen Police.

In the stretch, Kitchen Police, driven hard between horses by Ovie Scurlock, moved up stoutly but couldn't close the gap. Tavistock was third.

These Days

viduals, not as congregations devoted to the prolongation of distorted attitudes? Think back to the world in which you actually lived before 1930—we were not preoccupied with so much anti this and that.

We are Americans—with all our faults, failings, prejudices and sweetness. Let us unite as Americans to preserve our civilization, to improve it by a greater justice, but not to lose it by excesses in speed.

Pitching Horseshoes

"What say we go home?" I said to the missus.

My wife looked at me as if I had suggested broiling a child for dinner.

"Killjoy!" she snapped. "Everytime I start having a little fun, you want to go home."

"Be fair," I said. "You've been dervishing for nine hours—an hour longer than the longest union day."

"Okay, killjoy," said Eleanor, and we went home. But for the next two days she didn't talk to me and, if I hadn't proved it by living with her, there'd have been no living with her . . . .

But to get back to the last sentence of the second paragraph—the one about getting a little respect from the missus.

During the ten years of our marriage, Eleanor has been about as impressed with me as Joe Louis is impressed by Mickey Rooney. At the office when I holler at the intercom system, strong men spring to attention, but at home, like a million other guys, I'm only the nuisance who mucks up the carpet with cigaret ashes. But, brother, in Rio it was different.

The night before we left for Buenos Aires, I suggested to Ben Sirotsky, a spritely newspaperman-about-town, that I'd like to see something of Rio's seamier and less seemly side—its nickel dancehalls and dives. And so, starting at midnight, Ben took us on a post-graduate Cook's tour that wound up at Nellie's Castle, a spot which, according to the neighbors, was no better than it should be. And when I say "castle," I'm not kidding—it had more turrets and gargoyles than Orson Welles ever nightmared, and it was floodlighted like the opening night of a Hollywood service station.

Sirotsky introduced me to Nellie's sweet man, and when he heard my name, his mouth opened like a steam shovel. "We are deeply honored, Mr. Rose," he said, "and the champagne's on the house."

I looked over at Eleanor and I could see that this wow of a welcome had made quite an impression on her.

A few minutes later we were seated in a plushy parlor and a dozen of the top "hostesses" had joined our table.

"I used to play the tambourine for Carmen Miranda," said the proprietor. "Perhaps you would like me to dance for you."

Then came the capper. The proprietor brought a beautiful little blonde to the table and said, "The Atom Bomb wants to meet you."

"Could I please have your autograph?" said the lady. "I've been reading your pieces in the Portuguese edition of READERS DIGEST."

Well, I would have given it to her in blood if I'd had any handy.

On the way home I turned to Eleanor and stuck both my chins out.

"Seven thousand miles from home," I said forcefully, "the champagne's on the house, the proprietor does a tambourine dance for me, and the Atom Bomb asks for my autograph. From now on, if I don't get a little respect around the house, I'm going to hit you right on top of your pointy head."

"Yes, Daddy," said Eleanor.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 26—(INS)—Although Paulette Goddard went to Mexico to get herself divorced from Burgess Meredith, she wasn't too busy to listen to and accept B. P. Schulberg's offer to star in "Goya And the Duchess Of Alba," Lion Feuchtwanger's classic.

Margaret Whiting

Ben, who has been eight months trying to get financial backing, telephoned from New York to tell me that he will make this movie in Italy with Italian lira. The "angel" behind it is Marico Bonifico, American-Italian, who had a lot to do with the distribution of "Paisan" and "Open City."

Paulette plays the court lady who had such a torrid romance with a great Spanish painter. I'll bet Paulette gets a percentage. She is a very smart business woman.

Gregory Ratoff, who took off for New York to meet Alex Korda, his movie partner, spent the last day here closeted with agent Phil Berg. Greg came here especially to sign Edward Robinson, who is represented by Phil, for "My Daughter, Joy," in which, as I told you, Constance Bennett and Peggy Cummins play mother and daughter.

Well, Greg signed Eddie, who leaves in June for Italy and Algiers, where the movie will be made. Gladys Robinson, who has an art exhibition in Chicago, tells me she will go on to Europe and join Eddie. She will have another exhibition in Paris. Last year, while we were there, she was a sensation in art circles.

I must say I have never seen Joan Blondell look so well and happy. She is here with her mother to see her sister, Gloria, who's recovering from an operation. She said Gloria is much better, but was still quite sick. Joan leaves tomorrow or next day. She said she's already homesick for Mike Todd.

"Aren't you ever going to work?" I asked her.

"Mike brings plays home," she said, "but we haven't found anything we both like."

Mike told her over the telephone that since the Irene Rich story in the papers, they are breaking down the doors to "As The Girls Go" to get a look at Irene.

Joan says her son, Norman, is president of the freshman class, and that he and Ellen go to a little school near their home on the Hudson.

I'm so proud of our Hollywood people who are putting up such a strong front against the inroads of communism.

Next Sunday night members of Filmlands guilds and unions will sponsor a monster patriotic loyalty day parade along Hollywood Boulevard to counteract Russia's traditional May Day celebration.

At two o'clock in the afternoon Archbishop Francis McIntyre will stage a spiritual rally in the 105,000 seat Los Angeles Coliseum. Catholics, of course, will attend, but many members of other faiths will join in this religious meeting.

ABC Schedules Another Show To Replace Willson

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 26—Next on the MBS program shifting is to be the introduction of still another new drama series. This one goes in at 8:30, with Scattergood Baines transferring to the new time of 9.

The new program is International Airport, which using the basic theme of Grand Central station now on CBS, will have an airport as the focal point for its scripts. Naturally airplanes will have an important part in the plot.

ABC seems to have a bit of difficulty in deciding what's to go in at 10:30, vacated recently by the Meredith Wilson show. It already has tried several programs, and now has scheduled still another. It bears the title of "It's Time for Music," to originate from Hollywood with the cooperation of Ilene Woods, the Sportsmen quartet, and Buzz Adlam's orchestra.

First it was broadcast that Victor Moore would make a guesting in Duffy's Tavern of NBC at 9. Now it is announced that Charles Coburn will get the assignment. Maybe this is because Moore is in New York and the program comes from Hollywood.

Gary Cooper is to be host for the Family Theater session on MBS at 9:30. Title of the script is "Throw Your Heart in the Ring." Abe Burrows, soon scheduled for another CBS series, gets a recorded assignment in the Bing Crosby made in advance.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Giveaway programs, which normally defy criticism, have been coming up with some pretty funny prizes lately. And by funny I don't mean funny exactly. Sit down, "Hit the Jackpot." Got a few questions. Just what did you have in mind when you awarded John J. Noone, a postal clerk, a trip to the North Pole? What are you trying to do with John J. Noone, anyhow? Get rid of him? I see listed here among $28,000 worth of prizes in Mr. Noone's jackpot another one which is pretty suspicious. "A night on the town for a year," an expression that doesn't seem to mean anything and yet has an ominous ring. You mean this man Noone, just fresh back from the North Pole—if he gets back—is to be flung into the nightclubs for a solid year?

John Crosby

It sounds to me as if the giveaways, drunk with their own success, are trying to commit the perfect crime. I've been listening to mystery programs too long not to know what the score is. Someone around these giveaways, some little guy who gets $100 a week for thinking up dizzy prizes, has gone quietly but criminally insane. He wants to fix all the John J. Noones—them and their $28,000 worth of prizes.

"Stop the Music" the other day gave Mrs. Freda Perry, of Donora, Pa., an eight-thousand-pound elephant, a homicidal gift if ever I heard of one. I wouldn't allow the beast in the house, Mrs. P.

Let's everyone stay away from the telephone till this thing blows over. It's a dangerous instrument.

About a month ago the sponsor of "Blondie" decided that Penny Singleton was the wrong type to play the title role of that N. B. C. comedy. It's the sort of thing that happens to actresses all the time, but this was an unusual case. Penny Singleton had been playing Blondie for eleven years and it seemed a little late in the day to decide she wasn't right for it.

But they did. Then, as is the custom in radio, they held a contest among eighty-eight prospective Blondies before a panel of judges who represented—it says here—all walks of life. The judges—every last walk of them—picked a brunette, Ann Rutherford, whose prior experience consisted chiefly of playing squealing adolescent girls, to play Blondie, a matron and no brunette.

I tuned in Miss Rutherford the other night to find out how she differed from Miss Singleton. Well, there isn't a great deal of difference. Blondie is no Hedda Gabler, and the requirements of the role are broad, demanding vigor rather than subtlety, lung-power in place of emotion. Miss Rutherford's mating cry—"Dag-WOOD!"—I found somewhat less piercing and rather less exasperated than that of Miss Singleton. Perhaps it's just as well.

On the whole Miss Rutherford seemed a more frivolous and less determined wife for Dagwood than Miss Singleton. But then she hasn't been around the house very long. She'll develop determination. They all do.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke said in a lecture sponsored by the Shakespeare Society the other day that television and radio were worse than the atomic bomb. "It is better to be killed in an explosion," the British actor remarked dolorously, "than to have the human mind gradually deteriorating in the home." I find this proposition debatable. The mind under the impact of radio and video crumbles all right, Sir Cedric, but it's a slow process. Very slow.

After three years of this, my own mind has given away only in inconspicuous places. There is a tendency to forget things, to put on socks that don't match, to walk into lamposts. Just fitful gleams of madness, these, not yet important. At the rate it's going I figure it'll be another twenty years before the gates at the institution yawn, as the saying goes. And twenty years, even with the mind slowly slipping out from under you, is a pleasant enough prospect, pleasanter certainly than that final, apocalyptic explosion.

The "Scotch verdict" is the verdict "not proven" which the jury in a criminal trial in Scotland are permitted to find in certain cases. The defendant cannot again be tried on the same charge.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

X N A V N Y B Q O A W M Y B; X B I O E X N A I O W B: Q B X M L B X B ' A N E O F B V V B I L R O W B — A Q N U V.

Count Maximillian von Spee, born in 1861, was one of the builders of the German navy. At the outbreak of World War I he commanded the German Pacific fleet, but on Dec. 8, 1914, his fleet was attacked and destroyed by the British fleet, and Von Spee was lost with the German flagship Scharnhorst in the battle of the Falkland islands.

Half-Hearted Demand Sets Stock Market Slightly Ahead

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Half-hearted demand nudged the stock market ahead today.

Business picked up a bit after yesterday's slow market. Turnover of 870,000 shares compared with 740,000 Monday, one of the slowest totals of the month.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .2 of one point to 63. The industrial group made the best showing with the rails only slightly ahead and the utility section unchanged.

Of the 1,010 issues which appeared on the ticker tape, 458 advanced and 305 declined.

U. S. Steel Corp. common ended here at 72¼ for a gain of ½. After the close the company announced a dividend of $1.50 a share, in contrast with previous quarterly payments of $1.25 each, and the price advanced still further on the San Francisco Exchange.

Lehigh Coal and Navigation, second most active stock, dropped to 8⅝, a loss of 1⅜ and a new 1949 low.

Commonwealth and Southern, most active issue, reached a new top for 1949 with a rise of ⅛ to 3⅞.

Others higher included General Motors, Chrysler (up 1 at 51⅛), Goodrich, Oliver Corp., Douglas Aircraft, Liggett and Myers, Safeway Stores, United Corp. preferred, Commonwealth and Edison, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, J. C. Penny, Radio Corp., Owens-Illinois, American Tobacco, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, Skelly Oil, Standard Oil (NJ), and Twentieth Century-Fox.

Lower were Standard Gas and Electric $4 preferred, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, United Aircraft, Phelps Dodge, Allied Chemical, Nickel Plate, American Airlines, and International Paper.

The bond market got on its feet for the first time in a week.

Among traded issues posting price changes, a good majority were on the downside most of the day. Toward the close, however, buying enthusiasm began to expand plus signs were slightly ahead at the end. Changes generally were held to fractions, although a few issues moved a point or more from base.

More business accompanied today's better price showing. Volume totalled $3,330,000, against yesterday's $2,590,000 a three-week low.

Long term U. S. Treasury obligations were strong, a number of them moving up 1-32 to 4-32 in over-the-counter trading. The partially tax exempt 2¾s of 1963-58 gained 4-32 at 110 16-32, while the 2½s of September, 1972-67, closed ahead 1-32 at 103 10-32.

Baltimore Livestock

BALTIMORE, April 26 (AP)—(USDA)—Cattle-150. Hardly enough of anyone class sold to establish a definite price trend, but quotations nominally unchanged; common heafer 21.00; outstanding good cows on the heifer order 22.50; odd head canner and cutter cows 15.00-17.00; medium light sausage bull 19.00; cutter grade down to 16.00.

Calves—100. Trading rather slow but prices steady with yesterday's average; small supply good to choice vealers 24.00-27.00, top 27.00; common and medium in range of 15.00-24.00; bulk sales around 18.00 up; odd light culls down to 10.00.

Hogs — 800. Negro Jail Breaker Gets Six Years

Accomplice Given Six-Month Term; Six Others Sentenced

Eight traversers, including three involved in a jail break, were arraigned in Circuit Court yesterday for sentencing by Associate Judge George Henderson and Olive H. Bruce, Jr.

Kenneth F. Holley, 26-year-old negro convicted on a charge of burglary, who also entered a guilty plea for breaking from the county jail April 5, was sentenced to a total of six years in the Maryland penitentiary. He was given five years for jail breaking and one year for burglary, the sentences to run consecutively.

Donald R. Alburtis, who also broke jail at the same time, was convicted on a charge of breaking and entering. He was given a six months sentence in the county jail on each of the two charges, the sentences to run concurrently.

Negress Paroled

Helen V. Meade, who entered a guilty plea to aiding prisoners to escape from jail, was sentenced to four years in the Maryland Reformatory for Females, but was paroled on condition she refrain from use of intoxicants, stay away from people with criminal records and remain employed. The court took into consideration the fact that the negro women has three children and supports them.

A third man, Leonard L. Welsh, who escaped with Holley and Alburtis, has not been recaptured.

Holley was charged orginally with the theft of several automobile tires from the Dependol General Treading Works here, and had been jailed awaiting grand jury action, when he and his companions, using hack saw blades provided by the Meade woman, sawed their way from the county jail.

Carl M. Moxley, who had been arrested in the same case with Holley, theft of tires worth $62, was sentenced to six months in the county jail. He was not involved in the jail break and entered a plea of guilty to the tire burglary.

Records Considered

In passing sentence on Holley, the court took into consideration his past record. Authorities said he is also wanted in West Virginia. Alburtus was given a lighter sentence the Court indicated, because he is younger than the other men involved and has no past criminal record. Nothing was taken when the M & A Restaurant was entered, for which he was convicted.

Carl Wilson Wolford, charged with assault with intent to rob Mrs. Quinton Rice last February 9, entered a guilty plea and was sentenced to a year in the Maryland House of Correction. Sentence was suspended for three years on condition of his good conduct.

Clyde John Spaulding, charged on three cases of false pretenses, involving checks drawn on the Pendleton County Bank of Franklin, W. Va., and cashed in local stores, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and ordered to make restitution. The Checks totaled about $53.

Henry Virgil Sirbaugh was given two months in the county jail on two false pretenses charges involving the obtaining of goods worth $65 in one case and $37 in another.

Herbert L. Greenhorn, who entered a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary, was paroled for three years on condition he make restitution in the amount of $63. He was accused of taking four fifths of whiskey, five cartons of cigarets, a fifth of wine and $35 cash from the Potomac Fire Company club rooms.

County Tax Bills To Be Mailed Without Discount Date Change

County tax bills will be mailed out the latter part of May or early in June, W. A. Strother, county tax collector, said yesterday, and discount periods will remain unchanged.

In order to get the county in line with the state on a fiscal year basis, the County Commissioners last year levied for a 15-month period which ends June 30, with the new fiscal year starting July 1.

Until the law fixing the county's levy date is changed, previous discount periods will remain in effect. Should the County Commissioners wish to change the discount period to conform with the new fiscal year, they will be able to ask such action at the next session of the Legislature, which now convenes yearly, in February.

Under the present law, discounts are allowed on county tax bills as follows: if paid in June, five percent; if paid in July, four per cent, and if paid in August, three per cent.

Interest is charged at one-half per cent per month or fraction thereof from September 1.

Taxes collected prior to the beginning of the fiscal year, July 1, cannot be spent before that day. In previous years, however, tax money could be spent as it was collected.

Local Girls Win Essay Contest

BALTIMORE, April 26 (AP)—Two girls from Allegany High School, Cumberland, placed one-two tonight in an essay contest sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Darlene Fleegle, 17, Corriganville, was first prize winner.

Second prize went to Nancy Robertson, 16, Cresaptown.

Darlene read her essay before about 100 members of the Auxiliary in the War Memorial.

In it, she offered her pattern for American living.

Americans, she said, are like pebbles tossed into a pond of still water. Their actions, she continued, can produce ripples that will travel around the world.

She expressed a desire to finish high school and college, then be a career woman for three years before marrying and having a family.

Both girls were awarded medals. Darlene became eligible to compete in the National VFW Auxiliary contest.

Thieves Get $35 In Pool Hall Entry

Thieves entered the Mt. Savage Poolroom early Sunday morning and stole $35 in cash and merchandise, State Police reported last night.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker said the intruders broke a lock on the cellar door of a dime store adjoining the poolroom.

The store and pool hall, he said, have the same basement, and the burglars then went upstairs into the hall, where they rifled the cash register and took cigars, cigarets and candy from the counter.

The intruders, he said, apparently left by the front door.

Baker said the entry occurred some time after 2 a. m. Sunday, since the owners were in the building until then.

Scarlet Fever Case Brings Epidemic Rumors

Piney Plains School Will Remain Open

One case of scarlet fever has been reported in a Little Orleans family, and the farm home has been quarantined for a week, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, reported yesterday.

Dr. Frantz said the case is the first to be reported in that area in over a year.

Residents became alarmed when rumors of an epidemic spread, but Dr. Frantz said there will be no need to close the Piney Plains School.

One meeting in the Piney Plains area was cancelled last night before the epidemic rumors were quashed.

Miss Helen Rafferty, county supervisor of nurses, and Mrs. Isabel Laughlin, public health nurse, visited the home of an elementary pupil at Piney Plains School, after a Hancock physician diagnosed the girl's illness as scarlet fever and reported the case to local health authorities Monday.

Dr. Frantz said the parents and several children had suffered sore throats last week and that the physician had prescribed penicillin. Only one child developed the scarlet fever rash.

The father is a school bus driver. Arrangements were made with Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent of schools, for a substitute driver to take his place while the family is quarantined, Dr. Frantz said.

Meanwhile, a boy pupil at the Piney Plains School was reported to be ill with scarlet fever, and Miss Rafferty and Mrs. Laughlin are scheduled to visit his home today.

Dr. Frantz emphasized, however, that the boy has not been seen by a physician and that his case has not been diagnosed as yet.

Miss Rafferty and Mrs. Laughlin will be accompanied by two other public health nurses who will visit the school to check cases of sore throats or colds among the pupils, as a routine precautionary measure, Dr. Frantz said.

The health officer pointed out that scarlet fever cases are reported sporadically from various sections of the county.

He commented that residents might have become unduly alarmed over the situation because Piney Plains is in an isolated section.

The Weather

Those "mild" temperatures the weatherman promised us yesterday got somewhat out of bounds as the thermometer jumped up to a sweltering 84 degrees from an early morning minimum of 39. Little relief was found from the unfamiliar heat at 9:30 p. m. as the temperature remained near the 70 mark. Those showers, postponed by yesterday's weather whimsy, are promised for today along with some drop in temperature.

Burning Permits Issued Only For Weeds And Grass, Brennan Says

Burning permits are issued by the Cumberland Fire Department only for the burning of weeds and grass from gardens within the city, Fire Chief John E. Brennan announced yesterday.

Such permits will be issued at each of this city's four fire departments Tuesday through Saturday during seasons when property owners normally clean up the lots to plant gardens or after the growing season, he added.

Permits should be secured from the neighborhood fire department, he explained, so that the fire company will know the burning is taking place.

No permits are issued for any reason on Sunday or on Monday—wash day.

The permits allow burning during daylight hours under strict supervision of the person who secures the permit. Persons who burn such grass or weeds, the fire chief said, are responsible for any damage which might occur.

You do not, however, need a permit to make apple butter in Cumberland. The fire used for that purpose is small and, fire fighters point out, must be constantly watched if you don't want the apple butter to burn.

The city code, Chief Brennan declared, prohibits the outside burning of paper within the city.

Under a Board of Health resolution of 1934 adopted by the Mayor and City Council, garbage collectors must take waste paper which is placed at curbs and tied with stout cord in single bundles, if the bundles do not exceed 50 pounds.

The waste paper problem has been intensified since the monthly waste paper drives were discontinued a few months ago.

How're You Doin' With Your Diet?

By ILMA LUCAS DOLAN
Noted Dietician

How are you getting along? It isn't too rugged, is it?

The first week is really the hardest. After that you can blithely turn your back on that whimpering stomach.

There are many good books on the market for dieters, but it seems to us that a relatively small and comfortable volume called "Food Values of Portions Commonly Used" by Anna de Planter Bowes and Dr. Charles Church is one of the best. It is a paper-bound booklet, not a formidable tome. It is handy to have around. It lists plainly all manner of foods and gives the portions, their calories, vitamins and mineral content. The booklet sells for less than two dollars and thus can be made to fit into most any budget.

Good luck!

Remember, when you are inclined to cheat a bit that you alone are the loser.

It is possible to lose weight if these menus are followed closely and are not supplemented with those tiny but forbidden tidbits that you love between meals . . . candy, sundaes, cokes, doughnuts and cocktails . . . to mention a few.

Three Units Fight Blaze On Braddock Road

Fire Spreads From Refuse To Old Dump

Fire of undetermined origin burned a wide area on the west side of Braddock Road last night, but after more than two hours of battling was brought under control by forest guards, volunteer and city firefighters.

The blaze started in brush along the historic roadway about a mile beyond the city limits and spread to a refuse dump along the highway.

Firemen and foresters said the fire was particularly stubborn, because a large quantity of garbage, refuse and junk, dumped in a hollow along the road over a long period of years, ignited: Fires in dumps, they explain, are difficult to control and extinguish because they burn deeply and smolder for long periods.

Brooke Bodkin, forest supervisor of the State Department of Forests and Parks, discovered the blaze by the glare against the sky while he was enroute to Cresaptown to check an earlier brush fire.

Bodkin said he called some of the department's personnel, West Side Fire Company and LaVale Volunteer Company.

The three units fought the flames using water from booster tanks on their trucks. As water was exhausted each truck ran back to the city limits and filled its tank from a city hydrant and then returned to the scene.

Bodkin said he would keep his truck and a couple of men at the scene all night, just in case the blaze broke out again.

The forester said the woodlands are very dry and danger of fire is increasing. This particular blaze, he said, could have caused considerable property damage in the Dingle and adjacent areas had it gotten out of control. At one time the fire jumped across Braddock Road to the mountain side but was quickly checked.

Kendall Resigns Chamber Post To Head Texas Firm

John J. Robinson, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, yesterday announced the resignation of James R. Kendall as assistant manager of the Chamber.

Kendall came to Cumberland from Washington a year ago. As part of his duties, he acted as secretary of the Mercantile Bureau and the Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee.

While living in Cumberland, Kendall made many friends through his business and civic activities.

License Fee Bill To Get Veto By Lane

No Changes Will Occur In Rates

No changes in state and county license fees will become effective, according to Joseph E. Boden, clerk of court here, as he has been notified that Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., will veto the bill amending license fees.

Boden has received a communication from M. A. Powers, chief inspector of state licenses, advising him that no license fees will change since Governor Lane will veto House Bill No. 397.

The bill as passed by the General Assembly would have eliminated licenses on many vending machines; eliminated license fees for various types of shows; commercial mercantile and protective agencies; trading stamp companies; wholesale dealers in farm machinery; non-resident wholesale tobacco dealers, and others.

Under the measure, license fees for theatres, drive-in motion picture establishments, circuses, motion picture houses, construction firms etc., would have been greatly reduced.

All licenses will remain the same as in the past year, Boden explained and forms are now available at the clerk's office in the Court House.

Local Woman Writes Magazine Article

A party-planning hobby has paid off for Mrs. Sarah Hilaire, wife of Paul Hilaire, head of the mathematics department at Allegany High School.

An article written by her about an end-of-the-term party for a teacher has been published in the May issue of American Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilaire, who came here from Charleroi, Pa., in October, have always been fond of giving parties. The idea for the article came from a party she gave at the Methodist Sunday School sometime ago.

She admitted a slight surprise at seeing the piece in print because it had been accepted two years ago.

Although this is her first published article, her ideas also won her a prize on an entertainment program over Station WCAE, Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilaire and their three children live at the Kiwanis Sunshine Camp.

To Meet Tomorrow

The Second Army Advisory Committee will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in Room 12, Postoffice Building, to discuss plans for the observance of "I Am An American Day" May 15.

Work On Water Line Projects Starts Monday

Connections Made For Auxiliary Main

Extension of water lines along Princeton Street will begin next Monday, Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said yesterday.

Lines to high points in the Princeton Street section will be increased in size from two to eight inches to increase water pressure to these points.

The necessary mains and fittings are on hand, Edwards said.

After the Princeton Street project is completed, work will begin on laying one mile of six-inch pipe out Valley Road to the city limits to provide water for additional residents in that area.

Both projects are expected to be completed in three or four months.

Meanwhile, Edwards said the new auxiliary water main from Lake Gordon to the city has been connected at Davidson Street, and the last connection will be made today at Linden Street.

Bids for sterilizing the new main will be opened Monday morning at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Council.

The entire construction of the new transmission main took slightly over 200 days.

After the new line is sterilized, water will be diverted from the present main, which will be repaired, Edwards said.

TWUA Units Vote On Vacation Plan

Proposals to step up vacation schedules at the Celanese plant were rejected by two or three departments of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, this week.

Members of the Spinning Department, at meetings held Monday night and yesterday morning, approved the plan which John Powell, chairman, said will hold the present working force in the department at work for the next three or four months.

Under the normal vacation plan, five per cent of the workers each shift would be on vacation beginning May 1. The step-up plan will increase the vacation quota to about 30 workers per shift.

A similar plan was turned down by members of the Filtration Department at meetings held yesterday and Monday at the union hall.

Similar action was taken early last night at a meeting of the Bobbin Stores Department, according to Leroy Hare, department chairman.

He said members of the department pointed out that the move would accomplish little since at the end of about five weeks the furloughs would be placed in effect.
